'Open Channels' Probed In Nixon, Chou Closed Talk

Taiwan A Main Topic; President, Premier Have An Informal Dinner

PEKING (UPI) — President Nixon and Premier Chou En-lai held a three-hour secret summit session today, exploring ways of opening future channels of friendship between the United States and China. They then spent two more hours together at a friendly, informal dinner.

Overall, the two leaders were in each other's company for five hours without interruption but strict secrecy continued to prevail on their discussions.

Their lengthy meeting came a few hours after Nixon declared at the centuries-old Great Wall of China that he hoped his China visit would help break down walls of any kind —diplomatic as well as physical —that "divide the peoples of the world."

Nixon and Chou began their latest talk at 5:15 p.m. Peking time and were closeted together until 8:15 p.m. They then joined their wives, advisers and other guests for dinner in another room of the mammoth Great Hall of the Peoples in central Peking.

Since Nixon's arrival in China four days ago, the two world leaders have been together approximately 25 hours, more than half of that time devoted to official discussios.

Newsmen were given no inkling of information on the progress of the latest Nixon-Chou get-together, but an air of cordiality seemed to be still prevailing.

It was definitely learned that the thorny issue of Taiwan where the Nationalist regime of Chiang Kai-shek holds forth was a principal topic of discussion by Nixon and Chou.

Before the two heads of government held their third extended session, Secretary of State William P. Rogers and Chinese Foreign Minister Chi Peng-fei held a three hour afternoon meeting —their third session of the trip.

Rogers and Chi were believed hammering out specific language of general agreements reached by Nixon and Chou on cultural exchanges and continuing diplomatic contact, short of formal relations.

UPI Diplomatic Correspondent Stewart Hensley said that Rogers and Chi were focusing on three specific points:

—Arrangements for gradually increasing exchanges of students, scientists, newsmen and others.

—Efforts to increase trade between the two nations.

—Establishing a way of maintaining continuous diplomatic contacts at a level below that of formal relations. There were indications that this might evolve as setting up contacts in the capital of a third country instead of having reciprocal trade missions in the United States and China.

An estimated 100 persons attended the informal dinner. The Nixons then returned to their lakeshore guest villa, temporarily dubbed the Peking White House.

There was further manifestation of the warmup in Chinese-American relations at a nonoffical level when members of the

West Marin Ranchland Is Rezoned

Planners' Action Hits Premature Development

By ERIK M. INGRAM

In one fell swoop, the Marin County Planning Commission yesterday approved rezoning about 60,000 acres of West Marin ranchland in a move to forestall "premature development." (For property owners reaction, see story page 3.)

In one fell swoop, the Marin County Planning Commission yesterday approved rezoning about 60,000 acres of West Marin ranchland in a move to forestall "premature development." (For property owners reaction see story, page 3.)

The action, which culminated months of study by the commission, sets the stage for a showdown next month between developers and conservationists when the matter comes before the board of supervisors.

If approved by supervisors, the rezoning will change the minimum lot size from the present two acres per homesite to 60 acres per homesite in most of the northern section of the county. Several small areas would be rezoned to 20 and 40-acre lots.

The rezoning, recommended by the county planning staff to fulfill state law governing agricultural preserves, is the first of five piecemeal rezonings of the county's 200,000-acre preserve.

The law — the Williamson Act — states that lands within an agricultural preserve area must be zoned in a manner "compatible" with the agricultural industry.

Thus, County Planning Director Werner von Gundell said yesterday, he views the lowest possible density as the most compatible zoning for Marin's agricultural operations which are mostly dairying and cattle raising.

Five commissioners agreed, with Commissioners George P. Leonard and Kenneth Stevens dissenting.

Leonard said he wanted the matter continued until all sections of the preserve had been considered for rezoning.

He maintained it would be unwise to rezone one section without looking at its relationship to other sections, a point forwarded earlier by several developers.

Remapping Plans Off For Present

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — After 14 agonizing months of trying, the Legislature threw in the sponge today on reapportioning itself in time for the 1972 elections and set its sights on 1974.

"All efforts to reapportion the Legislature for the 1972 elections are dead," declared Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, D-Van Nuys.

He made the observation shortly after the Senate Wednesday decided to abandon its attempts to reapportion the upper house in time for candidates to run in new districts this year.

At a closed-door meeting of Senate Democrats and Republicans, agreemen' reportedly was reached on a compromise bipartisan bill that would apply to the 1974 elections.

Moretti said Assembly Republican and Democratic leaders are continuing to negotiate an Assembly redistricting plan which also would take effect two years hence.

The state Supreme Court ruled last month that candidates must run in existing legislative districts unless new ones were drawn in time for 1972 elections. It warned if the legislature this year failed to approve a redistricting plan for 1974, it would take jurisdiction of the issue.

Sen. Mervyn Dymally, Democratic chairman of the Senate Elections and Reapportionment Committee, said there were only four votes in the private meeting of the Senate against

District Attorney Opens Probe Into EOC Funding

An investigation of the Marin County Economic Opportunity Council has been launched by the district attorney's office, the Independent-Journal learned yesterday.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Gary W. Thomas acknowledged late yesterday that his office was probing financial affairs of the county's poverty agency but declined further comment.

"We're not finished with the investigation yet," Thomas said, adding that it centered on use of more than $62,000 in federal funds missent to and then used by the Marin EOC.

The funds — totaling $62,983 — were earmarked for Orange County but wound up in Marin through a transposition in code numbers used to identify local agencies.

Local EOC board members reached by the I-J say they don't know how or why the funds were used. Nor do federal officials who have demanded return of the money. They have launched an audit of EOC books to check the poverty agency's "fiscal responsibility."

While the district attorney's office acknowledges it is investigating the local agency, other sources have told the I-J that the investigation also is probing the affairs of Executive Director W. Robert Lomax Jr.

The sources said that investigation started about three weeks ago — well before the $62,000 discrepancy in spending came to light.

Lomax, reached last week, refused "on advice from Washington" to discuss the whereabouts of the $62,000.

Earlier this month he came under fire from some board members for poor leadership and a "lack of accountability" of EOC spending and reportedly was asked to resign his position. Shortly thereafter, however, he emerged from a closed EOC board session with its unanimous vote of confidence.

Word of the district attorney's investigation came as the City of San Rafael and the Marin County Labor Council — both represented on the EOC board — requested full explanation on use of the wayward federal funds.

San Rafael, in its letter, said it found the situation "most alarming" and called for a clarification of a reported $30,000 operating deficit as well as the $62,000.

The labor council, meanwhile, urged that the matters be "given top priority" at the next meeting of the board, scheduled for Wednesday.

"A full explanation of the payment of $62,000 dollars, its funding, acceptance and disposition by EOC, and the staff members who were involved and the role they played must be reported to the board," the letter says.

The labor organization also requested an explanation of the EOC's claim that it has placed 300 persons in jobs with local businesses and organizations.

New Auditorium Policies Studied

Marin County officials and representatives of local performing groups resumed discussions yesterday over suggested changes in the operation of the Marin Veterans Memorial Building, including new rental fees and use charges.

No conclusion was reached, although a county committee composed of Supervisors Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. and John F. McInnis is expected to make recommendations to the full board of supervisors soon.

Representatives of nonprofit groups such as the Marin Symphony, Marin Music Chest and Marin Civic Ballet have complained to the county that rental fees assessed noncommercial groups are too high. A separate rate currently is applied to commercial users of the new theater.

Present basic rates for use of the theater are $150 weekdays and $200 Friday through Sunday for noncommercial groups and $250 weekdays and $300 weekends, together with a percentage of the take over $2,500, for commercial groups.

Leon G. Kalmos, operator of the building has proposed that noncommercial groups pay $175 on weekdays and $250 weekends for use of a portion of the theater and $225 weekdays and $300 weekends for the full facility. For commercial groups, the rates would be $250 and $375 and $300 and $425.

Arrigoni said the aim of his two-man committee is to come up with a new set of guidelines for the facility in view of previous misunderstandings and the fact that the current theater rates are based on an 815-seat capacity.

That was the size originally planned by the board of supervisors, although expansion to the current 2,003 seats later was authorized.

While Kalimos has proposed a new rate schedule and equipment charges, Asst. County Administrator Thomas F. Campanella, has said "Nothing is firm yet."

Nonprofit groups using the theater complained heatedly at the committee's first session earlier this month that their organizations were being charged too much. "Everything is too high," said a spokesman for one of the groups.

Arrigoni said it was the intention of county officials to make the building a "pay-as-you-go operation. It costs up to $517 a day to operate that building whether we open the door or not," he said.

University Espouses Philosophies Of Mao

By COURTNEY R. SHELDON
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

PEKING — Chairman Mao Tse-tung's little red book of instructions may not have totally provided for an invasion of some 300 non-Communist Americans.

At every turn there is hospitality, tea, hot clothes, and almond pudding. "Quotations from Chairman Mao Tse-tung" urges that kind of treatment for friendly visitors.

But the hospitality does not include telling the correspondents accompanying President Nixon anything about what Nixon and the Chinese leaders are discussing.

While Nixon and Chou En-lai continued their discussions yesterday, colrrespondents were taken to workers' flats and Peking University. Reporters learned once more that for all of its advocacy of hospitality, Mao's book does not provide enough information beyond the party line for an extended and (in American eyes) spontaneous conversation.

The trip to the university, which started enrolling new students in 1970 after lapsing at the height of the "cultural revolution" in 1966, was perhaps the most chastening experience of the visit to date. It came after tours of workers' flats. These two-and three-room apartments were modest to an extreme — a few rough-hewn chairs and board beds — but the family units seemed pleasantly intact.

At the university, confession of erroneous behavior before

Angela Is Free On Bail — But With A String Of Conditions

SAN JOSE, Calif. (UPI)— Angela Davis was freed on $102,500 bail Wednesday night and driven past cheering supporters by defense attorneys who said, "We're ready, we've been ready," for the start of her trial Monday. (See photo, page 5)

"Right on," shouted about 50 admirers as the 28-year-old former UCLA instructor, jailed 16 months on murder, kidnap and conspiracy charges, was whisked by car from the Palo Alto facility to an undisclosed location.

The bail money was put up by Roger McAfee, a farmer in the Fresno area who said he was impressed by Miss Davis and the struggle she represented, according to a spokesman from her defense committee.

Her attorneys said Miss Davis would appear at a San Jose news conference at 2 p.m. PST (5 p.m. EST) today, but did not indicate if she would speak. The order allowing her bond release included a long list of conditions, including one forbidding her to attend rallies or public meetings without the court's permission.

Other conditions imposed by Superior Court Judge Richard E. Arnason included not discussing the case in public, not to "travel by air," and forbid her to "possess or control any firearms."

She was also ordered to take up residence in Santa Clara County, site of the courthouse where more than $200,000 has been spent for security arrangements for her trial.

Arnason met Wednesday afternoon with defense and prosecution attorneys in a closed-door meeting before ruling that last week's state supreme court decision outlawing the death penalty in California also struck down a state law forbidding bail to those accused of "capital crimes."

Miss Davis was charged with supplying the guns used in a Marin County courtroom escape attempt and shooting August 7, 1970. A judge and three kidnapers died.

The Man Who Went The Davis Bail

FRESNO (UPI)—Roger MacAfee, 33, the Communist farmer who put up his 405-acre ranch to provide collateral for the release of black militant Angela Davis said today he did it as a "matter of justice."

"It was a matter of justice, a matter of humanitarianism and a matter of my responsibilities to a fellow Communist," he said. "I'm just as sure as I'm Roger MacAfee that they're going to find her completely innocent."

MacAfee said the deed to the property, located southwest of Fresno and valued at $330,000, was given to Mickey Lima, northern California secretary of the Communist Party, over a year ago in case it was needed for Miss Davis' bail.

MacAfee said Lima contacted him last week and said Miss Davis might be released because of the California Supreme Court ruling striking down the death penalty and abolishing capital crimes.

Miss Davis is charged with murder and conspiracy in the 1970 Marin County courthouse shootings.

MacAfee said he drove to San Jose early Wednesday morning and conferred with defense attorney Howard Moore and other officials when it became likely Miss Davis might be released.

When Judge Richard Arnason ruled Miss Davis could be freed on $102,500 bail, MacAfee and the attorneys spent a hectic afternoon trying to arrange bail.

MacAfee said "blood thirsty" bail bondsmen wanted up to $1.5 million in collateral but cino, whose offices are located directly below the Free Angela Committee offices, came up with the money.

The big, red-faced farmer said he first met Angela Davis two years ago during a demonfinally bondsman Steve Sparastration outside Fort Ord and had a "great deal of respect for her."

He said his Communist philosphy "evolved from my childhood, my education" and described his father as a longtime Socialist.

MacAfee's parents, he and his wife and five sons run the family farm in Caruthers, about 20 miles southwest of Fresno, in a grape-growing and dairy region.

MacAfee said he accompanied Moore to the San Jose jail about 7 p. m. Wednesday night and when Miss Davis was released they embraced.

"She's quite a woman," MacAfee said. "This girl Angela Davis is very impressive."

Moore said they went to a private home in San Jose but declined to reveal the location or what they said other than that "everyone was very thrilled."

Life-Term Bill Is Introduced

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation mandating life in prison without possibility of parole for persons convicted of crimes formerly punishable by death and denying such defendants as Angela Davis bail was introduced today in the state Senate.

If the legislation by Sen. H. L. Richardson, R-Arcadia, now were in effect, Miss Davis could not have been released on bail.

At a news conference, Richardson warned that unless the legislature acts to approve bills such as his there is a "potential" for citizens to "take the law into their own hands" to protect themselves.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Primary Count

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — California's crowded presidential primary race is now off limits to all but nine Democrats, three Republicans and two minor party contestants.

The last letter in at dusk was from Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, the 1968 Democratic presidential nominee.

The other eight Democrats who met the preliminary deadline were Sens. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, George S. McGovern of South Dakota, Henry M. Jackson of Washington and Vance Hartke of Indiana, Mayor Sam Yorty of Los Angeles and John V. Lindsay of New York, Rep. Shirley Chisholm of New York and former Sen. Eugene McCarthy of Minnesota.

Republicans who qualified were President Nixon, Rep. Paul N. McCloskey of California and Rep. John M. Ashbrook of Ohio.

In addition, Nannini reported that a Peace and Freedom Party delegation pledged to Dr. Benjamin Spock and an unpledged American Independent Party slate have taken out nominating petitions.

Vietnam Action

SAIGON (UPI) — Allied forces gained ground today in clashes in the Central Highlands and guerrilla attacks tapered off noticebly throughout South Vietnam.

Communist guerrillas had averaged about 20 attacks a day during the dry season. Twice in the last week they stepped up that count to 50 a day.

U.S. B52 bombers struck five times in South Vietnam Wednesday night and early today, once over a suspected North Vietnamese storage area five miles north of the former U.S. base at Khe Sanh.

No Invitation

JERUSALEM (UPI) — In the clearest possible language the government has made it plain that U.N. envoy Gunnar V. Jarring is coming to Israel tomorrow without an invitation, sources said today.

Official communiques first said Jarring had "expressed an interest" in visiting Israel. Then the government said he would be coming "at his request."

Israel's view, at least publicly, is that there is nothing of substance to discuss with the U.N. Middle East mediator until he drops his one-year-old request for a committment to withdraw from occupied Arab territory.

Another Bombing

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — Two gunmen bombed a Londonderry electrical appliance shop today. In Strabane, suspected arsonists touched off a major fire at the town hall.

The army said two gunmen entered the appliance shop, planted a box on the counter and gave the staff three minutes to clear out. Fire broke out after the bomb exploded and causes extensive damage. No one was injured.

A spokesman said army units helped firemen battle the blaze at the town in Strabane.

Fatal Ambush

TEL AVIV (UPI) — Arab guerrillas ambushed a civilian vehicle near the Lebanese border last night and killed its two civilian occupants — a man and his wife — with bazookas, a military spokesman said today.

The spokesman said the guerrillas apparently laid nails on the road7to stop the vehicle and then blasted it.

Moon Drilling

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Luna 20 moonscooper used a special percussion-rotary drill to gather lunar soil samples now en route to earth, the Tass news agency said today.

"It was the first time a drilling rig was designed to simultaneously take hard and loose rock samples," Tass said.

Luna 20 soft-landed Monday in the Apollonius Mountain region, an area geologists believe contains some of the moon's oldest rock. The soil samples, drilled Tuesday, were rocketed toward earth Wednesday in a special capsule.

Tass said the capsule was to parachute into the Soviet Union tomorrow.

Fight Arrests

BOSTON (UPI) — Four whites were injured and seven blacks were arrested last night as a result of fighting between black and white Coast Guardmen at the guard station here.

It was the second consecutive day of racial unrest at the station. On Tuesday night, about two dozen black and white guardmen scuffled at the enlisted men's club.

A black enlisted man said the fighting began when two black guardsmen and several whites began scuffling.

Alaska Pipeline May Begin In A Year

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Interior Secretary Rogers C.B. Morton believes it may be a year from now before construction actually starts on the controversial Alaska oil pipeline.

Morton added that the start could be sooner —in about three months —if court challenges to the project are handled soon. The pipeline would carry heated oil from the newly developed north slope oil field to the ice-free port of Valdez in the southern part of the state.

PG&E Preferred Sale Authorized

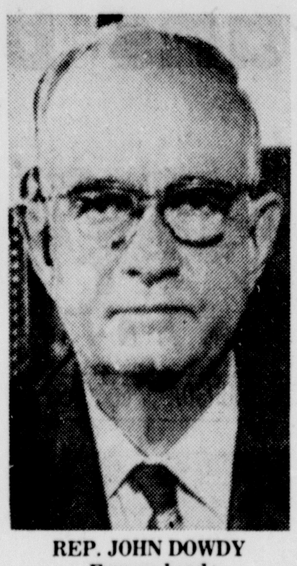
SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The Pacific Gas & Electric Co. directors Wednesday authorized sale of two million shares of its $25 preferred stock.

The utility said the proceeds would be used to finance its continuing program of expansion. The stock issue will be offered to the public on March 23.



REP. JOHN DOWDY
Free on bond

Legislator To Appeal Conviction

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Ten-term Texas congressman John Dowdy, fined $25,000 and sentenced to 18 months in prison Wednesday, prepared today an appeal of his conviction to the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Richmond, Va.

Dowdy's defense lawyers said the 60-year-old east Texas Democrat would remain free on bond until his conviction of bribery, conspiracy and perjury charges can be reviewed by the appeals court.

U.S. Judge Roszel C. Thomsen imposed sentence Wednesday after refusing to grant Dowdy a new trial on his Dec. 29, 1971 conviction, which ended an eight-week jury trial here.

Thomsen said that due to Dowdy's age and health—his trial was postponed eight times due to various illnesses—he would hear arguments later on what type of facility which Dowdy would serve his sentence in if he ever has to go to jail. The choices ranged from a maximum security facility to a penal hospital.

Dowdy's lawyers waived the usual presentencing investigation Wednesday. Special prosecutor Stephen H. Sachs told the court that at the start of the trial on Nov. 8, 1971, Dowdy and his wife had between $230,000 and $240,000 in cash available in 23 savings and loan association accounts.

Pat Tours 'Spectacular' Great Wall

PEKING (UPI) —Pat Nixon donned a hat as a concession to North China's winter weather today but appeared rested and jaunty when she toured the Great Wall with her husband.

"I thought it was even more spectacular than I had read about," Mrs. Nixon said after she viewed the ancient barrier near Peking. "It's so graceful ... winding up the mountain like a dragon's back."

She said she would like to "play hookey" from her duties as First Lady to take in more of the ancient wonders of the world.

It was the first time Mrs. Nixon and the President had gone sightseeing together since they came to China. The President has been tied up in conferences with China's rulers.

Nixon said his wife had given him a rundown of her earlier tours of Peking when they were together in the evening.

She vigorously climbed the stone steps leading to the Pataling section of the wall, which has been restored during the regime of Chairman Mao Tsetung.

Looking up to the mountain top at one of the wall fortresses, Mrs. Nixon turned to Secretary of State William P. Rogers and said: "Bill, how would you like to build that?"

Mrs. Nixon was in the company of two hostesses, Madames Li Hsien-nien, wife of the vice premier, and Chi Pengfei, wife of the foreign minister. The three women did a lt of smiling. Mrs. Nixon kept urging them to come up front with her as they proceeded on their tour and while pictures were being taken.

Mills Unveils New Social Security Plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., a dark horse presidential contender, has put together an election-year Social Security package that would give 27 million Americans an across-the-board 20 per cent increase in cash benefits this summer.

Mills, as chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, is in a position to drive the plan through Congress.

Last year he attached a 5 per cent Social Security increase effective this coming June 1 onto President Nixon's welfare reform package which is pending in the Senate Finance Committee.

Wednesday, he announced he wanted the Senate to scrap that plan in favor of his new proposal for 20 per cent hike effective June 1. A committee source said the only problem now will be to hold the Senate down to the 20 per cent figure.

Mills will chair the House-Senate conference that will work out differences between the House and Senate measures and will wield considerable influence over the final shape of the plan.

An obstacle could be a presidential veto, and with Nixon in Peking there was no immediate word on the President's reactions.

The Mills package, including other Social Security benefits in the House-passed bill, could come to $10 billion over one year.

Since Nixon has made welfare reform to provide minimum annual incomes for poor working families one of his priorities, the welfare-Social Security bill would be hard to veto. And Social Security beneficiaries represent a large voting bloc.

Mills said his proposal would raise the average Social Security paycheck from the present $133 a month to $162 a month. Payments to the average retired couple would jump from $222 a month to a new level of $269 per month. The average payment to widows would rise from $114 to $153.

Under the proposal the maximum tax —now paid on the first $9,000 of income each year —would rise from the present top of $468 to a new top of $530.40, on the first $10,200 of income earned. The increase in the tax, which is paid equally by employers and workers, would be effective this year.

In 1973 Mills' plan would raise the maximum tax to $604.80 on the first $12,000 of earnings.

Dissolutions By Mail Hit

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The California Supreme Court ruled wednesday that the growing practice in some counties of granting dissolutions of marriage by mail was improper.

The court said there must be a hearing for dissolutions except in exceptional circumstances.

Under the state's liberalized divorce act of 1970, the only grounds now necessary to obtain a "dissolution"—a term replacing divorce—was "irreconciliable differences" between the parties.

A minority opinion in the 5-2 decision contended that evidence of such differences could be presented by affidavit instead of by oral testimony.

One Slain During Florida Violence

JAY, Fla. (UPI)—One person was shot to death and two others were critically wounded early today when violence erupted between union and non-union workers at the Humble Oil Co. refinery here. Two persons were arrested.

The refinery employes non-union workers, authorities said, and local unions have been picketing it.

Bill Seeks State Prison Guard Tests

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Prison guards would have to pass both intelligence and psychological tests every three years to keep their jobs under a bill introduced by Assemblyman Bill Greene, D-Los Angeles.

The tests would determine a guard's "mental and psychological fitness to perform the duties of such position," according to the bill. Selection and administration of the tests would be up to the State Personnel Board.

The tests would be required of any person responsible "for the care, custody, treatment, training, discipline or employment of inmates."

Growth Hormone Found In Livers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government has announced the discovery of residues of a controversial growth-promoting hormone in two animal liver samples taken since it began asking farmers to certify that their livestock was free of such residue.

The agriculture department said residues of diethylstilbestrol (DES) were found in the liver of a sheep slaughtered in Utah on Jan. 27 and in that of a steer slaughtered in Idaho on Feb. 1.

Officials said both animals came from Utah and their producers had filed certificates stating they had complied with a new regulation requiring animals to be taken off DES-treated food seven days before slaughter.

Reds Walk Out —Talks In Doubt

PARIS (UPI)—The Viet Cong and North Vietnamese delegations walked out of the Paris peace talks today, casting doubt on the future of the negotiations. They said they did so to protest President Nixon's "escalation of the air war."

The Communist move coincided with Nixon's visit to Communist China and dramatized Hanoi's repeated warnings that the Vietnam problem must be settled in Paris alone. Hanoi has been reported suspicious of the Nixon visit from the day it was announced.

It was the first time in the history of the three-year-old talks that either side has walked out of a meeting, although both sides have boycotted several sessions. Today's meeting lasted 14 minutes, the shortest yet, and ended without the Americans or South Vietnamese having time to make their usual statements.

Hanoi's Xuan Thuy and the Viet Cong's Nguyen Van Tien read off protest statements and then offered to meet again next Thursday. U.S. envoy William J. Porter and Saigon's Pham Dang Lam refused to agree to the meeting next week, reserving their full right to decide when and if the talks will resume.

Porter told newsmen the move was a "violation of the agreed procedure." He said the American and South Vietnamese delegations returned to the negotiating table today at the express request of the Communists and warned the allies reserved a decision on the resumption of the conference.

The American and South Vietnamese boycotted last week's session to protest the holding of a left-wing world assembly on peace and independence of Indochina that turned into a major forum for public attacks on U.S. policies with Hanoi and Viet Cong participation.

Thuy, in his protest statement, charged the Nixon administration has stepped up the air war, causing "numerous dead and wounded among the civilian population including women and children, thus making the list of its barbarous crimes even longer."

North Vietnamese delegation spokesman Nguyen Thanh Le told a news conference after the session that the Vietnam problem can be solved only by the adoption of the Communists' seven-point peace plan of July 1, 1971, calling for a unilateral U.S. military pullout and abandonment of Saigon President Nguyen Van Thieu.

The Hanoi spokesman said the communists will consider any refusal by the Americans to meet them next week as a new U.S. "sabotage" of the conference.

The only time the conference session has similarly been cut short was in 1969 when then U.S. negotiator Henry Cabot Lodge, refused to make his statement and left after the two sides, however, had agreed to meet again.

South Vietnamese delegation spokesman Nguyen Trieu Dan told newsmen, "this was an unilateral breakup—a walkout of the session."

Ambassador Lam, Dan said, took the floor to denounce the Communist walkout while Hanoi and Viet Cong officials were filing out.

Porter said, while the Communists had already left the room and their seats were empty, "We have just seen a remarkable example of what the other side means by 'serious negotiations' for which they have asked us to come to the table."

REZONE

meanwhile, said he viewed the 60-acre minimum as "overkill" in trying to limit population within the preserve. He gave no indication of what minimum he would support.

Yesterday's hearing, which ran three and a half hours, served as a kind of dress rehearsal for opposing forces which will undoubtedly clash again when supervisors consider the matter.

The session led off with a promise from developer Neils J. Schultz Jr. of Larkspur that the proposed rezoning would wind up in court if approved.

He along with others requested the hearing be continued until the entire preserve could be considered at one time and claimed that to proceed with 60-acre rezoning in one section would set a precedent for the remaining 140,000 acres within the preserve area.

"It would be detrimental and prejudicial to other property owners," he said, adding that "it looks like a plan (by the planning department) is in motion."

He claimed the planning department appeared to have selected the "weakest part of the county" — the least influential — to start low density rezoning which would then serve as a springboard for rezoning other areas.

Von Gundell responded that no plan was in motion and that because of the bulk of area within the preserve it had been divided into "reasonably manageable sections."

"There's no communist plot to my knowledge," added commission chairman Jack G. Nixon.

From that point, conservationists and developers, with an occasional rancher joining in, rose one by one to trade opinions, facts, and fancies.

Maryann Loring of Kensington, who owns one acre in West Marin, urged adoption of the proposed rezoning because she likes open space and "open space and dairying go hand in hand."

San Rafael attorney Gil Medeiros of the Marin Property Owners Association countered that the rezoning would cause unknown economic consequences for the county by reducing property values and tax revenues. He contended that the two-acre minimum now in effect is adequate to control population growth and protect agriculture. The 60-acre zoning would deny landowners the right to use their land for anything but grazing cattle, he said.

A spokesman for the Tomales Bay Association said his group liked the proposed rezoning because "it keeps the county the way it is."

Clarin W. Zumwalt of the Conservation Foundation said he and his group supported it because it would protect the Tomales Bay watershed and thus Tomales Bay itself.

Rancher Roy A. Parks, a trustee for the Shoreline Unified School District said, however, he was opposed because additional loss of tax revenue would seriously threaten education in West Marin.

About 10 others on each side spoke their views but the most impassioned appeal came from dairyman William Strouss who said he wanted to endorse the rezoning as a means of protecting "a way of life."

"I fully, honestly and sincerely understand the positions of my colleagues . . . but money is not everything," he said.

"There is a point in life when one must fight for what he believes," he continued, adding that he had worked his 670-acre Tomales Bay ranch for 30 years and wanted to continue.

On a motion by William B. Lynch, who said he was satisfied that he could explain his vote to taxpayers, the commission voted 5 to 2 for rezoning.

calling it quits on enacting a redistricting plan for this year.

He did not identify them, but said they were split equally between Republicans and Democrats.

He said the latest compromise proposal generally follows the lines drawn in a bipartisan bill that got buried last session.

Like its predecessor, Dymally said the latest plan is aimed at protecting incumbents, would create a "Chicano district" in East Los Angeles and would pit incumbent Republican Sens. Milton Marks of San Francisco and Peter Behr of Tiburon against each other in a reelection contest.

Even as the primary and general elections loomed closer, some Senate leaders held out hope that a redistricting bill could be fashioned in time for senators to run in new districts.

But local elections officials in major counties, particularly those in populous Los Angeles, had warned that if a bill were enacted three weeks ago it would be "mechanically" impossible to hold a legislative primary at the June 6 presidential primary.

There was talk of holding a special legislative primary election later in the summer at an extra cost statewide of $5 million.

"It is just not feasible, even if agreement could be reached, for the orderly conduct of the 1972 elections to try to reapportion this year," Moretti said.

Dymally told newsmen outside the Senate's closed "caucus of the whole" that the lawmakers voted unanimously not to take the proposed bipartisan plan up for debjte on the floor before March 10, the final date for filing legislative candidacy papers.

REPORT

the "cultural revolution" by eminent professors was so unlike anything the correspondents had witnessed that it left a feeling of depression.

The university tour started auspiciously. The campus grounds seemed at first an oasis, a place where the Americans could relate to their guests. Then the briefings began, followed by an inspection of facilities and informal conversations.

There were two principal figures. One a professor, Chou Pei-yuan, and the other Chang Chun-yu, both members of the revolutionary committee. The professor is the vice chairman.

The vice-chairman of the committee was elderly and refined in appearance. He had studied physics in America and Europe and had a lifetime career of teaching.

Chang appeared in his 30's and had limited experience in education, but he spoke with hard and quick authority.

Before the "cultural revolution," the vice-chairman said, "I was, as dean, quite active in adopting the Soviet revisionist system. And now I see it was quite an error. I studied Mao's writing and I realized I was wrong."

He and other professors explained that the educational system had not been responsive to the needs of the people, that it had catered to "the elite." Now, they said, the univeristy had brought students and workers together by accepting only students who were recommended through the party-run committees of the communes and factories.

Once at the university, they spend as much as one-third of their time on factorylike work. The course has been shortened from six years to two or three.

Did any professors fail to admit their errors at the time of the "cultural revolution"? No, the reply was, they recognized the wisdom of Mao.

To Americans, all this self-criticism was rather saddening. If education is a special something in America that keeps freedom alive, it seems to be honored now in China for keeping party unity alive.

NIXON

U.S. news contingent were guests of the Ministry of Information at a lavish dinner at the Peking Restaurant tonight.

Chang Cheh Chi, a leading official of Hsinhua, the government news agency, said in a toast: "Now the doors of friendship have finally been opened and more and more journalists have visited China to promote mutual understanding and friendship between the American and Chinese people."

Responding for the American newsmen, R. H. Shackford of the Scripps-Howard newspapers expressed hope that the breakthrough visit "will be the beginning of a new era in Chinese-American relations."

Nixon's visit to the legendary Great Wall and a stop at the historic Ming tombs of the emperors enroute back to Peking marked his first chance to mingle on a person-to-person level with the Chinese people.

In an informal meeting with newsmen during his visit by auto to the ancient wall, some 35 miles north of Peking on a cold morning, the President commented:

"What is most important is that we have an open world. As we look at this wall, we do not want walls of any kind between peoples and I think one of the results of our trip —we hope — may be that the walls that are erected, whether they be physical walls like this or whether they are other walls of ideology or philosophy, will not divide the peoples of the world."

A formal communique is expected to be issued at the conclusion of the Nixon-Chou talks, but there was no official word on this. The two are scheduled for another meeting Friday, followed by a formal banquet by Nixon for his hosts in response to one for him and Mrs. Nixon Monday night.

Remodeling Plan Draws Approval

Plans and designs for interior remodeling of Scoma's restaurant, 588 Bridgeway, were approved last night by the Sausalito Community Appearances Advisory Board, building inspector William L. Hynes reported.

He said the renovation will not increase the exterior size of the building but will provide an additional 55 square feet of interior space and increase the restaurant's seating capacity by 16.

In December the Sausalito City Council and the planning commission granted a variance to permit the remodeling. Such a variance was needed because the restaurant building does not conform to city regulations specifying what percentage of a lot a structure may cover.

Wakefield Busing Initiative Is Ruled As Unconstitutional

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A controversial initiative proposed for the November ballot to ban busing of school children for racial integration purposes is unconstitutional, the legislative counsel has ruled.

The initiative, proposed by Assemblyman Floyd L. Wakefield, R-Downey, has aroused controversy over the emotional issue of busing.

The opinion, however, would not affect the validity of a companion referendum by Wakefield to repeal a 1971 bill by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael. Bagley contends his bill enacted integration guidelines to prevent court-ordered busing by proving the state is moving toward integration, while Wakefield charges Bagley's bill will lead to massive court-ordered busing.

Legislative Counsel George H. Murphy, however, has sided with Bagley's interpretation of his 1971 law. It was Bagley who released Murphy's separate opinion yesterday finding the Wakefield initiative unconstitutional.

A similar North Carolina measure was struck down last year by the U.S. Supreme Court, Murphy noted. Since the court's 1954 decision banning segregated schools, Murphy said, "it is clear that the equal protection clause of the Fourteenth Amendment prohibits the states from maintaining racially segregated schools."

The 1971 ruling by the Supreme Court in the North Carolina case found that "state policy must give way when it operates to hinder vindication of federal constitutional guarantees," Murphy noted.

Murphy added that a bill by Wakefield, which embodied the same language as the initiative, also was unconstitutional. The bill, AB 16, was killed Monday by the Assembly Education Committee.

Bagley noted that the bill got supporting votes from only two of the committee's 19 members.

The assemblyman declared that "the public must now be informed that the proposed initiative for which signatures are being gathered is a hoax." It would need 520,806 signatures to qualify for the November ballot.

The initiative states: "No public school attendant shall, because of race, creed, or color, be assigned to or be required to attend a particular SYDNEY, Australia (UPI)— The traditional porridge of oatmeal and rolled oats for breakfast is fast disappearing in Australia. Government statistics show that in 1939 more than five pounds of porridge was eaten annually by every Aussie. Now it averages out at 11 ounces.

Judge Orders Examination

Monty Leon Miller, 22, of no fixed address has pleaded guilty in Marin Superior Court to a charge of burglarizing a San Rafael residence on Jan. 8.

Judge Samuel W. Gardiner on Tuesday appoint two doctors to examine Miller to determine if he is a narcotics addict or in danger of becoming one. The youth is a parolee from the California Rehabilitation Center, where he had earlier been committed for addiction.

Another man, charged with the same burglary of a house on San Rafael Avenue, Leslie Robert Jewett, 20, is to be tried during the week of March 6.

Jewett was arrested near the scene of the burglary after a chase by the yomeowners. Miller was arrested later.

New Trailer Fee Policy Is Sought

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A bill to distribute trailer fees on the basis of where they are located instead of where registered was to be introduced today by Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael.

The measure was requested by Napa County Auditor Robert Benning, who estimated his county lost more than $30,000 last year because of trailers permanently located in the county by persons who registered them in urban counties.

Behr's office noted that the lost revenues by rural counties was adding to the statewide pressure to impose local property taxes on trailers.

The measure could mean a loss of revenue to Marin from the fees, Behr's office said.

Purse Is Stolen From Restaurant

Penny L. Cermak of San Francisco told police she left the purse with friends for a minute, but it was missing when she returned between 12:30 a.m. and 2 a.m.

Bill Carries Boat Police Stop Orders

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A bill requiring boaters to stop when ordered by a policeman and another freeing boaters from liability for helping at the scene of an accident have been introduced in the Legislature.

The bill (SB 236) requiring stops ordered by a peace officer or harbor policeman was introduced by Sen. Dennis E. Carpenter, R-Irvine. Failure to comply with such an order would be subject to a maximum fine of $100.

A similar bill was killed in the Legislature last year because of objections from boating organizations.

The other measure, AB 432 by Assemblyman John Stull, R-Encinitas, would provide that anyone giving aid in an accident shall not be liable for damages "where the assisting person has acted as an ordinary, reasonably prudent man would have acted under the same or similar circumstances."

Citizen Police

MANILA (UPI) — The government of suburban Quezon City is tapping civic clubs to set up a citizen police force. Vicemayor Carlos Albert says the citizen police will help establish a rapport between the local police and residents to curb lawlessness.

Creative Behavior 'Shop Set

Marin Association for Gifted Children is sponsoring a workshop, "Identification and Nurture of Creative Behavior," on four Saturdays, beginning March 4, from 9 a.m. to 4:45 p.m. Workshops will be led by Robert Adler, who is on the staff of the Dominican College education department and an instructor-director for the American Conservatory Theater in San Francisco.

Classes will meet March 4 and 18 and April 15 and 22 in Bertrand Hall on the Dominican campus in San Rafael.

The workshop will explore effective methods for responding to perplexing situations, based on the latest research in the field of creative behavior, according to Adler.

"The steps for putting yourself in touch with your personal resources are the same whether applied at home, in business, in professions or in the classroom," he said.

Mrs. L. R. Quiros of San Rafael is registration chairman.

Two units of college credit are offered by Dominican College to those paying an additional fee for the workshop.

LATEST FAD among teen-age boys is shoes reminiscent of those worn by women movie stars in the 1930s. Clockwise, from upper left, is a natural see-through slipper, a wedgie in blue suede, a three-inch stacked heel in gray suede with lavender heels, a white with stacked heel and one-inch platform sole and, for the older "gentleman," a classic black and white with slightly higher heel.

New Treasurer Scoffs At Her Job Being Sinecure

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Ramona Banuelos was told that her prime responsibility as treasurer of the United States would be to sign the country's currency.

"I was brought in under false pretenses," she said after holding the position for 30 days.

The position of treasurer, held by a woman since the administration of Harry S Truman, generally has been considered a sinecure, with politics an important factor in selecting the nominee.

Not so, Mrs. Banuelos said.

"IN REALITY, there is so much work that I'm at the office more than 12 hours a day," she said.

For example, she wound up with a letter by a constituent to his congressman, asking about the status of his attempt to buy a new Eisenhower silver dollar, for which he sent the treasury $6 and about which he has heard nothing.

Another congressman relayed a complaint of a tax refund which he said was seven months overdue.

"I have to check these things, find out what happened," Mrs. Banuelos said.

SHE SAID the mail sent to her office adds up to a heavy work load.

"I found 500 letters waiting to be answered when I moved in, 30 per cent of them written in Spanish," she said. "People in South America and Mexico wrote they were proud of someone with a Spanish background holding a position like this."

RAMONA BANUELOS
On 12 hour day

Other such letters come from Spanish communities in Texas, New Mexico, Arizona, California, Colorado, Oregon and Nevada, as well as Chicago, she said.

Mrs. Banuelos replies to those letters are dictated in Spanish.

Currency in circulation now bears the signature of the late treasurer, Dorothy Andrews Kabis, who died last year. Mrs. Banuelos expects her own signature to appear on paper currency in early April and she is glad the name will be that of a woman.

"THE TREASURER should be a woman," she said. "This is a tradition that should be followed. Also, I think women are good administrators by nature.

"If they appoint a professional woman to the position, she can help improve things, and there's always room for this."

On such a basis, Mrs. Banuelos, 47, is well prepared to be treasurer. Born in Miami, Ariz., March 20, 1925, the daughter of Juan Francisco and Teresa Lugo Acosta, she is founder of Ramona's Mexican Food Products Inc., the largest independent Mexican food processing plant in California.

She launched the enterprise in 1949 with an investment of $400. Under her management, the firm now brings in more than $5 million a year. In 1969, an employee profit-sharing plan was established, funded by the corporation. Shortly before her confirmation, however, she denied charges that illegal aliens were working there.

SHE WAS one of the founding directors of the Pan American National Bank of East Los Angeles, an undertaking launched in 1964 to serve the Mexican-American community and which now, under her board chairmanship, has resources of more than $22 million.

She is the mother of two sons, Martin A. and Carlos A. Torres, both active in the food processing firm. She and her husband, Alejandro, president of the company, have established three annual college scholarships for high school students of Mexican descent from needy areas of Los Angeles.

Men's Shoe Fashion Barrier Falls

CHICAGO (UPI)—After decades of resistance, another barrier separating the sexes is crumbling —now his shoes can be as chic as hers. And this may bring on far-reaching commercial implications.

The high heels, platform soles, buttons, bows and buckles which have blossomed below the ankles of sturdy American males signals a rare instance of liberation-in-reverse.

Through the years, according to Encyclopaedia Britannica, men's oxfords have remained essentially unchanged while more than 100,000 new sample styles are prepared annually for women. As a result, important changes in footwear manufacturing and marketing may be in the offing.

For example, U.S. leather footwear production has been running at 25 per cent of the world's total —an average of 3½ pairs per year for each American. This was before the onslaught of new styles for men's shoes.

Prior to the spreading popularity of fancy footwear for men, and going back for years, about half of all shoe sales were for replacement or utility. The other half represented fashion motivation.

For this reason, women's shoes have been outselling men's by about 3 to 1. But if the new styles generate a lasting interest in men's shoe fashions, the factories will be producing at an expanded rate. As it is, footwear production has been gaining an average of about 10 million pairs annually, with each worker's output 2,900 pair per year.

The effect of a steady stream of style-conscious men would be felt from shoe factory to shoe store, if the women's footwear situation is an indicator. Of the 100,000 new styles of women's shoes prepared each year about 20 to 25 percent go into production, with long consideration given to colors, materials, lasts, patterns, ornamentations, heel shapes and heights and —something heretofore exclusively for the women —silhouettes.

Computer-Knit Suits Seen Soon

You may be wearing a computer knitted suit soon. An electronic scanning computer called "Response" may give Texfi Industries, Inc., the fastest design capability in the knit industry, using a spin-off from the principles of aerospace optics developed for Israeli defense.

The computer permits textile designs to be translated from paper to fabric in 10 minutes in an infinite number of colors and patterns, reports Women's Wear Daily.

A design can be knitted directly out of the computer. Fast response to customer needs is the advantage, according to the manufacturer.

GENERATION RAP

by Helen and Sue Bottel

Resentful 13-Year-Old Says Nobody Understands Problems

DEAR HELEN AND SUE:

When I was 11, my folks let me stay out till midnight. Now I'm over 13, and have to be in by 10 p.m.

I asked my mother if this wasn't a free country, meaning our home life, and she said, "As of now, we don't have a democracy, it's a dictatorship, and I'm the dictator." Imagine that.

She caught me smoking and screamed "I won't have it!" — with a cig in her hand. She found out I did grass, and she asked my why and I told her it's because I get less uptight and feel beautiful. She's going blah-blah-blah for a couple of months, and then I find these "downers" in her medicine closet. I'm sick of that line.

I don't have any friends because I can't stay out late, and my mother is only interested in her business and making money. There's a lot of yelling goes on at our house all the time, and my father is no help. I can't go out on school nights, and I sometimes have to babysit my stinking rotten brother. Even my teachers don't like me, so I get in trouble for talking back.

The trouble with society is us teens don't get a say in what happens.

Another thing that's messing me up is this guy I dig that split up with me. Nobody understands me. So why shouldn't I turn against everybody? — MAD AND MIXED UP

DEAR M AND MY:

Somehow I feel sorrier for your mother than I do for you. She isn't getting much cooperation from a resentful, mixed-up 13-year-old who insists on growing up too soon. A girl who wails, "Nobody understands me" sometimes brings it on herself by making no effort to understand others . . . or cooperate with them. Perhaps your mother turned to "dictatorship" because she learned "democracy" — for you — meant taking advantage of the "free" society. — HELEN

DEAR MAD:

At 11, you were allowed to stay out until midnight, when most kids (including me) had curfew around 9. Now, at 13, you've taken up smoking and blowing weed — and you wonder why your mother has started with the discipline. She's long overdue.

You can't get along with your guy, you say the teachers don't like you, and you blame your lack of friends on your parents. Why? I think you've sobbed on too many shoulders when you should concentrate on getting the chip off your own.

Maybe your folks aren't perfect, but neither are you. If you'll get your head together and stop being so resentful, you might find out they're really concerned about you. — SUE

DEAR RAP:

My husband had no complaints about my figure before we were married. And I didn't complain about his either. I still don't (but he's very sensitive because he's short).

Now he tells me I'm too little on top and too big around the hips, and besides my legs are too long. Are there any exercises I can take to correct all this? — NEW BRIDE, 34-24-35.

DEAR BRIDE:

The best exercise might be mental: when you build up your husband's confidence, he'll stop putting you low to bolster his faith in himself. I suspect he subconsciously wants to "bring you down to his size." — HELEN

DEAR BRIDE:

Not being that psychological, I'll just say: Tell this critical guy, "What you see is what you get," (and 34-24-35 is better than most.) — SUE

Concept Of Measurable IQs Hit

By CYNTHIA PARSONS
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

An intelligence quotient of 70 is supposed to be bad; it's generally associated with the term "retarded."

If a parent has an IQ of 70, what are the chances that each of her children will have an IQ of 70?

According to many tests, the chances are very good. This has led many psychologists and educators to the conclusion that IQ level is inherited and hence there is little reason for the public schools to try to do anything ith such children except to provide them with the most basic and simple skill training.

BUT A FIVE-year experiment in Milwaukee is causing a minor revolution in professional pedagogical thinking. At the Infant Education Center there, a selected group of infants, who showed every sign of mental retardation and whose mothers were retarded, were put through a program that began with the mothers returned from the hospital with their new-born babes.

(The children's fathers were not included in the study.)

Each infant was exposed to mental stimulation through infancy and placed in a nursery school situation as soon as each was ready. The results have been enormously encouraging.

The children are learning at a rate that is in excess of normal IQ children. And all are registering intelligence quotients aoove the level of retardation.

The Milwaukee experiment is a success. The tests show that it is possible, through excellent and continous teaching, to prevent the "inheritance" of mental retardation.

A growing number of scholars are challenging the whole concept of a measurable intelligence quotient. Many tests that purport to measure something called IQ are reading tests. They test a child's reading ability, or his vocabulary, more than they do something called intelligence. But even those tests that try to bypass reading ability have their cultural or "past-experience" biases.

THEREFORE, THE present practice in much of the Western world to categorize a child's aility to learn (or what he should be taught) by his IQ score is patently false.

The Milwaukee Infant Education Center shows that a child without mental stimulation and the opportunity to work with words, ideas, and numbers reaches school with a poor IQ, especially so if the mother also has a low IQ.

But that child isn't dumb, isn't retarded, isn't unteachable. Under the present system, however, the child is so labeled, and test results confirm the surface diagnosis.

What the Milwaukee project proves is that such children require special teaching, the earlier in their lives the better, and that with proper mental stimulation they not only can learn to learn (what school is all about) but can even score high on intelligence-quotient tests.

THE IMPLICATIONS of what was learned in the Milwaukee Infant Education Ceter are startling:

Schooling on a voluntary basis should be offered to infants and their mothers immediately after birth.

IQ tests, if given, should be used to diagnose the methods that may be best to teach a given child and not as a device to measure intellectual capacity.

Parents of children in school should require that all IQ scores be removed from the school records.

All communities should operate infant-education centers patterned after the Milwaukee project to test the best ways to teach infants and pre-schoolers.

HUNDREDS OF reasearch projects should be started for incorrectly labeled retarded adults to discover the best methods for teaching them and to provide the necessary mental stimulation to turn them into successful learners.

Traditional school practices must be changed now that the belief in children varying in IQ from minus-10 to 140-plus has been proved false. Mental retardation is not inherited; it is the result of intellectual neglect. Perhaps it comes from a lack of mental stimulation, as the Milwaukee study demonstrated.

FICTIONAL ACCOUNT

Book Emerges On Wives Of POWs

I-J Special Report

NEW YORK — About a year and a half ago, Omaha film writer Joan Silver was watching a television newscast at home. A segment of the program was an interview with the wife of an American serviceman, presumed a prisoner of war in North Vietnam.

"I couldn't get that woman out of my mind. I thought about her for days", said Mrs. Silver in an interview with McCall's which excerpts the forthcoming novel "Limbo", authored by Mrs. Silver and her partner, Linda Gottlieb in the magazine's March issue.

"Limbo" is a fictional treatment of the lives of several wives of POWs of various ages and backgrounds after they receive the news that their husbands are missing. Mrs. Silver said that the title came from the wives who speak of themselves as "living in limbo."

"I don't even remember her name now, but listening to that wife, I was terribly touched by her story. Here was a woman suddenly alone trying to cope in that suspended situation, without focus and without knowing how long she'd have to live that way.

"WHEN SHE talked about the difficulty of trying to reassure her children, give them some kind of normal life when they couldn't understand what had happened, it really got to me. This was what war does to people's lives — an aspect I hadn't thought much about until then."

Mrs. Silver's strong reaction led her to begin searching out available material on Vietnam prisoners of war and their families, with the conviction that the subject was the right vehicle for the Silver-Gottlieb writing producing team's first film venture.

With Mrs. Gottlieb's enthusiastic agreement, Mrs. Silver began the seriou research which took her to the Pentagon and State Department. "They were always very polite and helpful. But they did what information officers are supposed to do — told me what they wanted me to know."

TO GET BENEATH the official surface, Mrs. Silver worked through the National League of Families of American Prisoners and Missing In Southeast Asia. With their help she met the first of the Wives interviewed. They led her by the grapevine to others and it is these women who provided the background material for "Limbo"; women for whom Mrs. Silver has profound sympathy and respect.

"We decided not to do a documentary, to treat the story as fiction instead, because we didn't want it to end up as a polemic, a pro or anti-war statement, but a story about people," Mrs. Gottlieb said.

The original screenplay from which the novel was commissioned, was written by Mrs. Silver and is currently in production under the auspices of Omaha-Orange Films (The Silver-Gottlieb company) in association with Universal Films and the Filmakers' Group, with Mrs. Gottlieb acting as producer.

It describes the wives' difficulties in learning anything of their husband's fate in the face of implacable military security and their rootlessness in a non-military world which often regards them more as oddities than as the tragic figures they are. Learning self-reliance, they struggle with growing feelings of frustration and resentment, trying to maintain loyalty to their husbands and to an establishment which serves the wives with cool, correct detachment.

"IT'S DIFFICULT for them to stay loyal," said Mrs. Silver. "They're evicted from the bases almost as soon as their husbands are listed missing in many cases — and often they want to stay because that's the life they know and their friends are there." She said that wives are given very little help with financial problems while their husbands are absent and not much more assistance in preparing to deal with the physical and psychological problems their husbands will face on their return.

"It's almost as if the wives are an embarassment."

Teacher Blodgett To Get $35,000 In Back Pay

The Tamalpais High School District board has agreed to pay reinstated physical education teacher Elizabeth Blodgett more than $35,000 back pay.

Supt. Wilber D. Hawkins said that although the district was ordered on Feb. 9 to pay her by Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court, board member Bette Wallace abstained from the vote Tuesday.

The board agreed to pay the 45-year-old teacher $23,246 back pay, $3,306 interest, $2,080 for dental and medical insurance, $1,066 court costs, and about $7,000 in income tax and contributions to the state retirement fund not made after her dismissal.

Miss Blodgett was fired in March 1968 because her weight was considered unsuitable for a gym teacher. She finally won a court battle to get her job back in December and has been teaching again at Redwood High School since the beginning of this month.

The Tamalpais High School District board also:

STUDENT TRAVEL — Held a first hearing on proposed criteria governing student field trips and will reconsider it March 6. Field trips were questioned after On Location students from Redwood High School journeyed to Mexico last year.

CITIZENS COMMITTEE — Decided to hold a joint meeting with its new citizen advisory committee to discuss the group's purpose, but scheduled no meeting date.

LIBRARY — Heard a report that a library book checkout system devised by Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing Co. has ended book loss problems at Tamalpais High School. During the first half of last school year the library was missing 1,600 books, but this year had more books than it started with after four months.

GRIEVANCE — Refused to allot $14,000 not used for staff development last year to the same purpose this year as asked by teachers.

HEATING, FURNISHING — Allocated $3,800 to improve heating and add venetian blinds at Redwood High School and another $3,530 for furniture for the new student center at Sir Francis Darke High School. Trustees Robert W. Corlett and Jerrold M. Ladar opposed.

DRAKE PROBLEMS — Allocated $4,800 to build a fence with turnstile around the football field at Sir Francis Drake High School to keep out horses and motorcycles which caused $5,800 damage there last year and authorized $6,200 to upgrade the heating system of portable classes at Drake.

RETIREMENT — Accepted the resignation of Dino A. Volandri, who is retiring after 20 years as an industrial arts teacher at Tamalpais High School.

HIRING — Hired Ethel Otteson as a temporary part-time Tam teacher at a salary based on $9,566 a year.

RESIGNATION — Accepted the resignation of Tam teacher Suzanne Schmidt, who is on maternity leave.

LEAVES — Granted leaves of absence to Laurence Weisman, a Tam social studies teacher, for the next school year; Marilyn M. Grimes, a teacher at Mewah Mountain High School, for April and May; and Marie Bruce, a Tam secretary, from May 1 to June 30.

STUDENT TEACHERS — Authorized a contract for student teachers with Lone Mountain College of San Francisco.

SECRETARY — Hired Jo-Ann Peltz as a secretary for Tamalpais High School at $417.75 a month.

Span District 'Gift Horse' Lassoed By Tam Schools

A gift horse doesn't trot by every day, but Tamalpais High School District board members lassoed one when it did.

The board Tuesday eagerly accepted an offer by Golden Gate Bridge District's bus system to halve the fare for students and cut the charge to the school district, according to Supt. Wilber D. Hawkins.

The agreement is effective Wednesday. Students now paying 30 cents a trip to ride buses chartered from Golden Gate Transit instead will ride its regularly scheduled buses and pay 15 cents a trip.

Hawkins said the school district, which now pays $47,000 a year as its share for bus service, will save more than $5,000 a year under the new plan.

H. Donald White, bus transit manager for the bus system, said the transit system also will save money by eliminating duplications and relieving two buses for transit use.

The bridge district took over the school bus routes from Greyhound Bus Lines along with commuter service Jan. 1. It also inherited the existing contract.

That contract assigns eight buses to the high school district to carry 325 students. The Marin City Transportation Co. and the Marin County Economic Opportunity Council transport about 200 other students.

Sausalito Planners Nix Maps For Wolfback Ridge Housing

The Sausalito Planning Commission has turned thumbs down on a tentative map for a 206-unit subdivision on 160 acres of Wolfback Ridge, citing inadequate access to the project and a lack of environmental protection, planning director H. Eric Borgwardt reported yesterday.

The commissioners, at a special meeting Wednesday, voted unanimously to recommend to the city council that the plan, by developer Edward R. Fitzsimmons, be rejected. The council will consider the proposal at its March 7 meeting, he said.

According to Borgwardt, the commissioners believed the single road — Rodeo Avenue — into the single-family subdivision was inadequate because the only entrance to the project thus would be from the southbound lanes on Highway 101.

The commission also thought the current plans would not preserve or "enhance the property's natural attributes," he said. The commission also objected to what the planning director called "a lack of community facilities, including parks and playgrounds" in the 160-acre development.

In other business, the planners postponed until their March 1 meeting a public hearing on an amended plan for the 431-unit Whiskey Springs subdivision in Northern Sausalito. The hearing was put over at the request of the applicant.

Belvedere Planners, Facing Heavy Agenda, Were Busy

The Belvedere Planning Commission has approved seven use permits required under an emergency city ordinance, denied two others and approved a minor subdivision.

The comMission — faced Tuesday with one of its heaviest agendas in recent memory — approved the following, according to Commissioner William H. Rafter:

Permits for remodeling the dwellings of James Hickey, 60 Peninsula Road; Lumir J. Cerny, 107 Acacia Avenue and Leonard Sperry, 20 Crest Road, who also was granted a variance to allow a three-story house.

Permits to allow Richard Griffith to extend a parking deck over city property at 79 Bellevue Avenue and o let Charles Dahle build a new home at 75 West Shore Road.

A permit for a gateway to the property of B. M. Carlisle, 2 Cliff Road. Rafter said, however, tht another for a garage was delayed pending receipt of new plans for the structure.

Two permits were denied, according to Rafter. One, which would have allowed Lee Carlson of 102 Golden Gate Avenue to add to his home and build a swimming pool, was rejected because commissioners felt it was "not the proper use of the land," while Sidney Schonfeld was denied a permit and variance for a new residence at 10 Cliff Road. Rafter said the proposal was opposed by neighbors.

Also approved was a minor subdivision to allow Hamilton Vose III to divide two lots on Belvedere Point into three parts.

An emergency ordinance, due to expire March 6, requires a use permit for all new construction in Belvedere in order to guarantee that new buildings conform to existing and contemplated zoning regulations.

Charges Taken To Superior Court

Howard Earl Rhodd, 22, of no known address, has been ordered to stand trial in Marin Superior Court on charges of attempted robbery, auto theft and concealing stolen property in connection with a series of events Feb. 14.

He is to be arraigned March 8.

Police arrested Rhodd, a California Rehabilitation Center parolee, upon catching him shortly after an attempted robbery at the 7-11 store on Diablo Boulevard in Novato.

Rhodd had reportedly faked a gun in his pocket but then told the store manager he was"only kidding." Police pursued him in a small foreign car, which they said turned out to be stolen.

Rhodd, who had no weapon, finally surrendered after the car he was driving crossed a sidewalk on Stone Drive in Novato and then rolled into the police car.

READING LAMPS

Solution For Bus Catnaps

The Golden Gate Bridge District may have found a way to ease the cold war between commuters who want to sleep and those who want to read on the buses.

The district's finance-auditing committee voted unanimously today to recommend that 20 additional buses the district hopes to order should have reading lamps above each of the 45 seats — at a total additional cost of $19,046. That's $942.32 per bus fr slightly more than $20 per seat.

Director Stephan C. Leonoudakis voted for the proposal, but jokingly insisted that "it would be cheaper to issue sleeping masks" to passengers who want to nap while the buses' bright fluorescent lights are left on for the literary-minded.

The new buses will solve another complaint of passengers who have bumped their heads on the baggage racks in the 120 buses previously bought by the district. The baggage racks in the new vehicles will be three inches higher.

The federal government is expected to pay two-thirds of the new bus purchase costs, as it did for the earlier ones. The full bridge board will vote on the purchase tomorrow.

Ross Trustees Approve $500 For Rec Program

The Ross School District board has agreed to give $500 more to the busy Ross recreation program.

Supt. Thomas A. Anderson said the money granted Tuesday for this fiscal year is in addition to $1,500 previously granted.

Anderson said about 100 students now participate in after-school athletics and others participate in classes and outings of the program.

The Ross Town Council has refused to help with expenses of the program.

The Ross School District board also:

GIFTS — Accepted a one-year subscription to the National Humane Review from Mrs. J.J. Graves of Bridge Road and $50 for science materials from Dr. and Mrs. Frederick A. Zulch of 36 Allen Avenue.

ADVISORY COMMITTEE — Considered setting up a citizens advisory committee, but shelved the idea indefinitely.

REGULATIONS — Reviewed regulations that would apply to resolving persistent disagreements with employees.

INTELLECTUAL ASSESSMENT — Heard a report on fall tests of intellectual and scholastic levels from Dr. Rick Sheviakov of San Anselmo who found the fifth grade lagging behind previous fifth grades and the level of ability compared to the state average rising from the lower grades to the higher grades.

HEALTH — Heard a report on revised curricula for drug abuse, venereal disease and sex education classes more tailored to the Ross district.

ECOLOGY — Heard a report from ecology teacher Dan K. Campbell on the ecology program and plans to expand it to the pump house at Phoenix Lake.

OBJECTIVES — Decided to hire a consultant to look at instructional proposals prepared by teachers to meet district goals developed last year.

GRIPE — Heard complaints from Ed J. Gilmore of 100 Laurel Grove Avenue that the district is spending too much. Gilmore, president of the Tamalpais Chapter of the California Republican Assembly, suggested increasing class size to save money.

ADJOURNED — Adjourned to an adjourned meeting at 7:45 p.m. March 13 when the 1972-73 budget will be discussed.

Lobbyist Pay Hike Is Backed

A second annual 25 per cent pay increase for the Golden Gate Bridge District's Sacramento lobbyist was recommended today.

Lobbyist Gordon Garland should be paid $25,000 this legislative session, according to the legislation-public relations committee of the district board.

Garland's retainer was $20,000 last year and $16,000 the year before. The district is one of several clients retaining Garland.

A district attorney said the increase would be justified under federal wage controls because of increased expenses claimed by Garland during the 11-month 1971 session.

The board will weigh the suggestion tomorrow.

Chewing Gum May Halt Tooth Decay

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI)— Dr. Sidney B. Finn, a dental researcher at the University of Alabama, is conducting an experiment that he says may lead to the use of chewing gum as a decay preventive.

Finn, using a grant from the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, said the gum, which contains sodium trimetaphosphate, is being given daily to 600 students at the Florida School for the Deaf and Blind.

Hearing Set On Horse Clampdown

The Tiburon Planning Commission took a look last night at a proposed ordinance that would clamp controls on keeping horses in the city and set a public hearing to further consider the matter.

The ordinance, according to Planning Director Richard G. Arjo, was reviewed by a committee of the commission which made minor wording changes, then zeroed in on one question: shall horses be allowed only for accessory uses in Tiburon?

If the answer is yes, Arjo said, horse owners would be required to keep their animals on their own property rather than boarding them on someone else's land.

The ordinance would require animal licensing, a minimum of one acre for boarding horses and stipulates that they must be kept at least 40 feet from their owner's residences and at least 80 feet from any other house.

The planning commission will hold the hearing when it meets at 8 p.m. March 6 at city hall.

Phony Heart Fund Collections Reported

Jo Doughty, chairman of Petaluma's Heart Fund campaign, told police yesterday two teenaged boys have been making unauthorized collections.

Mrs. Doughty said the boys have been attempting to make collections on Fair Street and other areas around Petaluma Senior High Schools. She said authorized Heart Fund collectors carry identifying badges and collection envelopes.

Tam Recall Figure Resigns Presidency

Nicholas Harris of Bolinas, Tamalpais High School student body president who successfully fought a move to recall him in December, yesterday announced his resignation.

According to John R. McSween, dean of student activities, student boyd vice-president Matthew White will fill Harris's unexpired term, which runs until June.

At yesterday's student body meeting, the 17-year-old senior said he was stepping down from the presidency to devote more time to other activities, particularly the school's task force for educational planning, of which he is a member.

The task force is a group of students, faculty members, community residents and adminstrators assessing educational needs of the school.

Harris was the school's first junior to be elected student body president and the first elected to two terms. He was elected in January 1971 and reelected in May.

In December, Harris, White and sophomore class president Paul Cohen were targets of a recall election called by students who claimed the three were not taking their jobs seriously and not representing a majority of the student body.

The move to recall Harris and White failed Dec. 9. Cohen was recalled, then reelected class president and later resigned.

Meeting Tonight

Canyon Pipeline Plans Attacked

Directors of the Marin Municipal Water District yesterday heard a group of conservation-minded residents express concern that a pipeline the district is thinking of building through Baltimore Canyon may damage the area.

The board and district staff promised the canyon would not be injured if and when the line is constructed.

Charleu Bruce, chairman of the Larkspur Town Meeting, declared that construction of a road through the canyon would adversely affect the area's vegetation, trees and small creek. But, he said, the pipeline itself, if buried underground, would pose no serious problems.

Bruce asked if the district is firmly committed to a canyon pipeline and if it plans to build a road, either to facilitate construction or for future maintenance of the line.

Director Eugene A. Miller replied that the district has no firm plans now to build the pipeline.

"Various alternatives, including the canyon, are being considered for a line at this time, but nothing has been decided, he said.

The pipeline would provide additional water from Bon Tempe and Alpine reservoirs to Southern Marin to meet existing needs there.

If the line is built, Gen. Mgr. William R. Seeger said he sees no reason why it could not be constructed by hand digging. This would make it unnecessary to build a road. "We've done many hand digging jobs in areas where you can't get machines in," Seeger said.

The board directed the staff to prepare a list of possible routes for the pipeline, along with costs.

Marin Municipal Water Board Also:

WAGE STRUCTURE — Accepted for study a study of the district's wage and salary classification system prepared by Cresap, McCormick and Paget, San Francisco management consultants. The study, which the board will consider for adoption at its next meeting, recommends a revised salary structure, along with suggested policies for administration of the salary program. The most significant recommendation is all salary increases for the 208 employees be based solely on merit rather than as annual general cost-of-living increases.

BIKE PATHS — Asked staff to prepare a policy to insure that bicycle paths will be constructed on pipeline rights-of-way.

PLANTING — Approved a plan for landscaping portions of the Nicasio reservoir area. The proposal was made jointly by the district, the Marin Council of Boy Scouts of America and the Marin County Board of Realtors.

COMMITTEE MEMBER — Accepted the reappointment of Douglas de La Fontaine as the Richardson Bay Sanitary District's representative to the advisory committee to Improvement District A.

LAND — Agreed to buy, at a cost of $7,600, a site for a tank on Elinor Avenue in Mill Valley and a pipeline right-of-way in the area.

CONDEMNATION —Voted to file condemnation suit against Lagunitas Development Properties for 3.8 acres of land needed to expand the district's San Geronimo filter plant.

LOS WATER — Adopted a program designed to reduce the amount of water unaccountably lost from the district's system, estimated by B. G. Grant, special studies engineer, to be about 11 per cent of the total water annually. Grant said the goal should be to reduce the losses by 50 per cent. The board uthorized the staff to spend $2,000 to test water measuring meters and other equipment which may be involved in the losses.

PUMP STATION — Awarded a contract for construction and installation of the Madera Park pump station to H. L. Michael of Novato whose low bid was $6,100.

PAYMENTS — Agreed to make these payments: $987 final payment to Jorgensen and Davis Inc. for completion of the Scott Highlands booster pump station No. 2; final payment of $11,763 to the underground construction company for Phase 2 of the Ross line; semifinal payment of $657, and notice of acceptance and completion, to Mel Barnes for coating of the Tennessee Valley tank.

EXTENSION — Granted a 36-day extension for completion of the Bret Harte tank by the Chicago Bridge and Iron Co.

BID — Awarded a contract for 27,000 feet of copper tubing to the Water Works Supply 6o. of Union City whose low bid was $14,694.

PIPELINE — Voted to grant a 250-foot limited purpose pipeline extension to Dee Barger and Dorothy Meyer on Live Oak Avenue in Tamalpais Valley.

EMPLOYMENT — Accepted the resignation of Athos Hinnenberg, who retired as an auto mechanic helper this month after 27 years, and agreed to hire Lindsay Trimble as a garage attendant at $681 a month.

CLAIM — Rejected and referred to its insurance carrier a damage claim by J. B. Quella who is seeking $3,565 for a fall in Sausalito.

150 Pct. Income Increase Reported

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Pacific Coast Holdings, Inc., announced Wednesday a 150 per cent increase in net income from 1970.

Clyde H. Charlton, president of the diversified firm which provides financial services to real estate and insurance industries, said the company earned net income of $509,377 or 50 cents per share in 1971 compared to $202,945, or 20 cents a share, for 1970.

Charlton reported total operating revenues for 1971 of $7,796,735 compared to $6,667,922 for 1970.

Panel Hears Water Use Forecasts

Marin Municipal Water District staff members gave the board a glimpse into the future yesterday, compete with forecasts of population growth and water use to 1990 and a plan for curtailing water use during a shortage.

Dietrich Stroeh, manager of engineering, told the board that:

1. By 1980 some 199,000 persons will live in the district compared to 172,000 now and 232,000 by 1990.

2. If present trends continue, per capita water use, now 173 gallons per day, will increase to 178 gallons per day by 1985.

3. This year district customers will consume about 33,000 acre-feet of water, approximately 5,400 acre-feet above the amount that will leave a "safe" reserve of 30,000 acre-feet in reservoirs.

4. If per capita consumption continues, by 1985 the district will use 43,000 acre-feet a year and consequently will need an additonal annual supply of 13,000 acre-feet.

Stroeh suggested the district institute a water conservation education program. The board voted to spend $6,000 to finance a one-year program, beginning next month, to include conservation hints in bi-monthly billings.

Stroeh emphasized that even reducing water use per person and use of some reclaimed water for irrigation will not eliminate the need for additional water.

Should a serious water shortage occur, B. G. Grant, special studies engineer, recommended the district prohibit the following uses, in this order: 1. street flushing and cleaning from hydrants; 2. residential car washing; 3. lawn watering; 4. watering of golf course fairways; 5. all other irrigational uses, and 6. use by commercial laundries, industrial and other major users.

Chairman Of Water Board Will Retire

Robert G. Anderson, chairman of the Marin Municipal Water District and a 24-year veteran on the board, announced yesterday he will not seek reelection to a seventh term in June.

"I want to enjoy a full life of retirement and I feel that I and my family have earned it," said the 62-year-old Anderson who represents the district's Division 5 which includes Sausalito, Tiburon, Belvedere, Tamalpais Valley and part of Alto.

Anderson recently retired as sales manager of All-Trans Express Co., a San Francisco trucking firm which he once owned, but sold in 1945. He continued to work for the company after the sale.

He was first elected in 1948 and subsequently reelected for five more four-year terms.

During his tenure, the district constructed the Bon Tempe, Kent Lake and Nicasio reservoirs and built the Bon Tempe and San Geronimo treatment plants, the major Southern and North Marin lines, and the Corte Madera office and maintenance yard.

Before his election to the board, Anderson also served for seven years as a trustee of the Sausalito School District. He is a past exalted ruler of the San Rafael Elks Lodge and a 32-year member.

ROBERT G. ANDERSON
Veteran director

A native of Sausalito and lifelong resident of Marin, he resides at 205 Valley Street where he has lived since 1933. He and his wife, Claudine, have three grown children.

Anderson's fellow directors all expressed regret at his decision, indicating they would particularly miss his wealth of knowledge and background.

Persons wishing to compete for the board seat in the June 6 election can file for the post until the March 10 filing deadline.

Redesign Of Sign Asked

The San Anselmo Design Review Committee yesterday asked the Marin Senior Coordinating Council to redesign its proposed sign for tha bus stop terminal and shop to be operated by senior citizens at 69 Center Boulevard.

The committee decided the "supergraphic" blue and yellow sign proposed would not fit the general theme it hopes to set for the Hub, committee secretary Thelma Foster reported.

The committee decided to ask the city council to set policy on gasoline price displays at service stations.

Trial Slated For Heroin Possession

David Charles McReynolds, 21, of San Rafael, has been ordered to stand trial in Marin Superior Court on a charge of possessing heroin. He is to be arraigned March 8.

McReynolds was arrested Nov. 4 on a charge that he had a small plastic bag containing smack with him when police approached him on a Fairfax hill on Sept. 24.

Burglar Gets Jail Term

Judge Samuel W. Gardiner of Marin Superior Court has placed George Kenneth Martin, 21, of Anaheim, on probation for three years and ordered him to serve six months in jail for burglarizing a San Rafael sporting goods store Dec. 28.

The judge on Tuesday said, however, that Martin was to receive credit for time already spent in jail and that his term was to run concurrently with one in San Bernardino County.

Martin was arrested inside the Western Sport Shop when police responded to an alarm. He said he was trying to steal guns in order to sell them to get money to go see his ailing mother in Anaheim.

Water Need Meetings Scheduled

A series of town meetings to solicit citizen opinion on how Marin Municipal Water District should expand its current water supply to meet future water needs was approved yesterday by the district board.

On a recommendation by directors Jack R. Felson and Eugene A. Miller, the board agreed to hold these community meetings: April 20 in the San Anselmo area; April 21, Mill Valley area; May 4, San Rafael, and May 11, Terra Linda. Times and locations of the session have not been determined.

The board also proposed that a districtwide town meeting, at a date and place to be announced, be held in late May or early June. At this meeting the district board would attempt to decide the form of water supply expansion.

Miller said the meetings will be designed to allow public comment and criticism of alternatives for increasing the water supply.

The sessions will focus on descriptions of alternatives, and probable costs. At each meeting, district staff will report on future water requirements, population projections and projected per capita consumption rates.

A Demand GM Replace Mounts

LOS ANGELES (UPI) —A $1 billion damage suit against General Motorsorp. demands the automaker replace, not just modify, unsafe engine mounts in 6.7 million Chevrolets now being recalled by the factory.

The class action, field Wednesday on behalf of the owners of affected models, also asks for $1 billion in exemplary damages.

The suit said GM is planning only to install metal straps to reinforce the defective motor mounts, even though the company has been making a stronger type of mount for the past two years.

The suit asked for a court order requiring GM to substitute the new type of mount without charge to the owners of 1965 through 1969 Chevrolets. The cost would be around $260 million for GM, the suit estimated.

Cotati Schools Crosswoalk Plea

School crosswalk guards as an extra safety precaution were suggested Tuesday night to the Cotati School District board.

Members of the curriculum committee reported that two school principals had requested crosswalk guards and that their cost was under study. Miriam Horne, board secretary, said the committee suggested that police departments in Rohnert Park and Cotati might provide adults to work as guards. In other business, the board approved a plan to divide the kindergarten class at Cotati School into two sections to permit more individual attention. The board also approved a resolution opposing the statewide planning program, budget system as a threat to local control.

Free Toll Bill

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A bill authorizing the California Toll Bridge Authority to permit on-duty Highway Patrolmen to cross toll bridges free was approved today by the Assembly Transportation Committee.

Program Urged 'at All Speed'

The Marin County Juvenile Justice Commission recommended yesterday that the county resume participation in the state subsidy program "with all possible speed."

John G. Donovan, commission vice-chairman, explained today that the program is a "bounty plan" under which the state rewards county probation departments that send fewer than their annual quota of delinquents to the California Youth Authority.

The county dropped out of the program two years ago because it was costing more to stay below the 40-case quota by handling them within the county than Marin was receiving in state subsidy funds. The formula has been revised to raise Marin's quota to approximately twice the old limit, Donovan said.

He reported that probation officer John W. Brewer will ask that the subsidy program resumption be put on the county supervisors' agenda for Tuesday.

Commissioners decided to hold their regular April 19 meeting at the Marin Juvenile Hall to inspect the facilities.

Bike Registration Slated Saturday

A free bicycle registration will be held from 9 a.m. to noon Saturday on the Ross commons, sponsored by the Ross School and Ross police department.

All bicycles bought there will be stamped "Ross" with an identifying number for the protection of their owners. Anyone unable to attend at that time may get the same service individually from the Ross police department.

CALLING ALL CAMERA FANS

By Ken Reichard

SHOWING OFF A COLLECTION

Seems like everyone's a collector these days, of one thing or another, from bottles to old snuff boxes. If you, or someone in the family, is a collector, you should find that collection a happy subject for your camera.

Unless the collection is of very large objects (like old cars!) one of the first rules is to get as close as you can. It is the close look that will reveal the beauty, the fine detail, the craftsmanship, the shapes and textures of most "collector's items."

In fact, close-up work is too often neglected by most photographers. In any slide or movie show, it is the closeup that will make the audience gasp, providing real impact. And a slide collection of close-up shots of your collector's items is the only way to show them off (and a good way to exhibit your prizes without the risk of handling breakables).

Need a closeup lens attachment for your camera, or anything else in accessories to broaden the range of your photo hobby? See us. We carry complete lines, and can advise you expertly on your needs.

State Supreme Court In Legislative Role

"Judged by contemporary standards of decency, capital punishment is impermissibly cruel." — California Supreme Court, in decision written by Chief Justice Donald R. Wright finding that the death penalty violates the California State Constitution.

In making its finding, the court also cited a phrase in Article I, Section 6, of the state constitution: . . . "nor cruel or unusual punishments be inflicted."

"We have concluded that it (the death penalty) can no longer escape characterization as an 'unusual' punishment,'' wrote Chief Justice Wright for the court majority.

WHEN EDMUND G. BROWN was governor of California, he campaigned hard but fruitlessly to get the Legislature to abolish the death penalty. It perhaps never occurred to him to try to get it done by the court. He was a lawyer and knew who wrote the laws.

But five men whom Governor Brown appointed to the state Supreme Court joined Chief Justice Wright, a Reagan appointee, last week to write their own law, seizing on one phrase from the state constitution.

In doing so, they espoused the remarkable dictum that "contemporary standards of decency" determine whether something is legal or illegal, constitutional or unconstitutional — regardless of what the law or the constitution says.

Further, the court sought to slur the state constitution itself as some anachronism from a bygone age, declaring:

"Well over a century has now passed since the day when vigilante justice and public hangings made executions an accepted practice of California life. We cannot today assume, as it was assumed in early opinions of this court, that capital punishment is not so cruel as to offend contemporary standards of decency."

IN THIS BIT of casuistry, the court chose to overlook the fact that the California Constitution has been extensively rewritten and amended since those early days, yet no edict against the death penalty has ever been included in it.

It chose to overlook also that bills for abolishing the death penalty have repeatedly been rejected by the Legislature, and that an effort at its repeal by initiative failed to gather enough signatures to qualify for the ballot as recently as 1960 — despite Governor Brown's pushing for it.

Further, three of the justices chose to overlook the fact that just four years ago they rejected a challenge to the death penalty on the ground that it was for the Legislature to decide. Those three — Louis H. Burke, Stanley Mosk and Raymond Sullivan —at that time joined Justice Marshall McComb in a 4-3 decision. Justice Burke wrote the opinion.

LAST WEEK, Justice McComb was alone. "It is the duty of the Legislature or the electorate, and not the judiciary, to decide whether it is sound public policy to empower the imposing of the death penalty," he wrote (almost the same words used by Justice Burke four years ago).

The six other justices overlooked something else, too. In seizing on the Section 6 prohibition of "cruel or unusual punishments," they ignored what appears immediately before it in that same section:

"All persons shall be bailable by sufficient sureties, unless for capital offenses. . ."

Neither the writers nor the rewriters of the constitution bothered to define "capital offense." They didn't need to. They accepted the standard dictionary definition: an offense punishable by death.

Strangely, the six justices couldn't see that part of the section they cited.

THE ISSUE HERE is not whether the death penalty is right or wrong. It is not whether the death penalty offends contemporary standards of decency.

The issue is: Who makes the laws?

Behr's Proposal Revives Government For People

By RUS WALTON

Years ago some pretty savvy fellows came up with a great idea: a government of and by and for the people.

One essential, of course, was that the men (and later, the women) who were elected to represent the people would operate in the open. No star chambers. No back rooms or hidden deals. Everything on the up-and-up.

Somewhere along the line things got a little sloppy. Some of the elected representatives started holding their cards and their votes so close to their vests that the public had a hard time finding out just what was going on.

So, government of and by and for the people tended to be more of a government of and by and for the politician. Take the year 1971 in the California State Legislature.

IN 1971, 4,738 bills were introduced: 3,100 in the Assembly, 1,638 in the Senate. That's an average of about 38 for each assemblyman and 40 for each senator.

Out of those 4,738 bills, only 1,975 got through both houses and reached the governor's desk. (Which, of course, is some kind of a blessing. We have too many laws, as it is. But that's something else.)

Most of the 2,763 bills which died aborning were "killed in committee." And, no one knows for sure who killed what.

The legislators' votes, in committee, are mostly unidentified and unrecorded. For years committee action on bills has been by straight voice vote by nameless legislators — men whose votes count but are never counted. It is difficult, even impossible, to learn how certain legislators cast their vote upon the committee waters, or what bread came back in return.

State Sen. Peter Behr. (R-San Rafael), thinks that is all wrong. He thinks the people should know how their legislators vote in committee.

"It's the committee vote that really counts." That's what Peter Behr says. And he's correct. The present system of anonymous voting in committee permits a legislator to escape the consequences of his action.

Behr wants the system changed. He has introduced Senate Resolution 4 which would require roll call votes on all legislative action in committee. These roll call votes would be published in the official Senate journal.

Behr feels the "citizen's right to vote includes his right to know how his elected representative voted on all the issues, all the time." Hear, hear!

STATE SEN. Clair Burgener, (R-La Mesa), agrees. "The image of the legislator is at an all-time low", acknowledged Burgener, "and this will do more to close the credibility gap than anything else."

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Validity Of Transport Comparisons Doubted

Re: Your editorial of Feb. 16.

Your comparison of bus vs. ferry transport is based on typical pragmatic engineering benefit-cost analyses and utilizes conventional problem solving methodology in comparing alternate modes of moving persons from A to B. I contend that moving people across the San Francisco Bay is a problem of systems analysis and it is improper to analyze components of the system in terms of benefit-cost; only the total should be so analyzed, if indeed at all.

I would also ask if these costs are in fact all-inclusive. Do the totals really include all costs of the transport modes? I suspect the ferry costs do, but I seriously doubt if the costs for bus transport are complete. The buses use the highways, and should contribute to the cost of the facility, maintenance and operation, policing, etc. Certainly these costs are not included in those cited in your editorial. And are the costs of damage to our environment included in the bus costs — noise and air pollution, added highway facilities, etc.?

Lastly, I think we have reached a time when we should start to think about what is an enjoyable way of life, and question those who insist that what is of least cost is the most desirable alternative. Riding to San Francisco and Marin on the ferry is a very pleasant way to travel, and that's all there is to it. And don't say we can't afford it, because we can. Any society that can afford the luxuries of our inept political leaders, the Vaillancourt Fountain abortion, and the Southeast Asia rat hole can afford to have four ferry boats on the San Francisco Bay.

Ferry Operation More Economical

In your editorial on the cost of ferries versus the cost of buses, I wonder if your presentation was giving only part of the story. It seems to read as though you are considering only the capital equipment costs of the means of transportation. To name just a few other costs which should be considered when making a fair comparison of means of mass transit are, operating and maintenance costs, residual value in the equipment at the end of useful life, life of the equipment, etc.

One of the operating cost factors which might be considered is that a ferry which can move 750 people probably needs no more than five crewmen to operate, while a bus needs one driver for every 45 people. After a little division, the ferry would be shown to have a 3-to-1 operating personnel advantage and possibly, if salaries and benefits were equal, the same advantage would be true in operating personnel costs. Also, over a 10-year period, for instance, what replacement costs and maintenance costs need to be faced? Again, on a hard cash basis, the ferry could earn back some expenses through the sale of food and beverages which is not possible with the bus. I feel that all factors need to be considered not the least of which should be something on the order of air and noise pollution per passenger mile — it would seem to favor the boat approach.

Lastly, I was astounded with your final comment about rail transportation as the "obvious answer." How the rails would span the Golden Gate and get through San Francisco sounds like a problem that only a great deal of money can solve whether it is spent in construction and right-of-way purchase or in developing a hybrid vehicle. Just what is wrong with a local bus distribution system which feeds a ferry and makes use of a similar distribution/feeder system at the other end.

Giant Hoax Of OEO Continued By Congress

The Feb. 18 IJ headline regarding the Marin EOC unaccountability of a misdirected $64,000 in federal funds on top of their own deficit of $30,000 was no surprise to me. 'Twas the length of time that it has taken this giant fiasco known as the Office of Economic Opportunity to surface, not only locally but nationally.

It's just another alphabetic agency of the many which since it's inception has been a giant hoax perpetrated upon the American people under the guise of helping the needy. In actuality, privately organized councils came into being to assume the functions of locally elected government, each fighting with fanatical fury for the taxpayers' money. As a result we have witnessed overlapping authority, too much authority or no authority at all, vague and confused definitions, and lack of any clear-cut line of procedure. So the administration of the anti-poverty program has been nothing but a chaotic shambles.

Yet despite charges and evidence of graft, patronage, and political blackmail Congress continues to fill the poverty platter while refusing to accept a single congressional amendment that might help to correct some of he glaring ills of the law. The House has just passed a two year $5,300,000,000 extension of the anti-poverty program and the Senate will probably follow suit because —

This is an election year and most congressmen are on an ego trip promising utopian programs and ignoring the enormous debt of this republic — $425 billion in the red, paying $80 million interest on this debt. Now Congress wants to increase the debt ceiling to $480 billion!

Let's turn the rascals out and abandon paternalistic slavery beginning with the OEO!

And last but not least pray that the Marin County Board of Supervisors turns a deaf ear should the EOC seeks a subsidy.

We See Peking On Television, But Much Mystery Remains

WASHINGTON — The beginning could not have been bettered. President Nixon and his national security advisor, Henry Kissinger, have successfully engineered a breakthrough momentous for the entire world.

Thanks to electronic technology, the whole world watched. We saw the arrival, the banquet, the exchange of toasts between the President and Premier Chou En-Lai, the President clinking his glass with every Chinese in the hall. Thanks to television closeups, we probably saw more than most of the guests in the great Hall of the People.

The rare privilege of a talk with Mao Tse-Tung in the privacy of his home was a propitious start. The impact of this impressive scenario on the American voters is incalculable. Here is the President flying halfway around the world to sit down with a leader once an avowed enemy to carry out his promise to work for peace.

FADDISTS THAT WE are, Americans go from one extreme to another. Two or three years ago Red China, the designation for 700 million people locked in a wall of secrecy, was a dirty word. Today everything Chinese is in vogue. This euphoric mood is in itself a hazard, since so much can still go wrong and swing the pendulum back in the other direction again.

In the midst of intensive preparations for the Peking mission, Kissinger was asked for his appraisal of the stability of the government of China. His response was a shrug and a reminder of what had happened since his first visit in mid-July when he negotiated the invitation for the President.

The defense minister, Lin Piao, No. 2 in the hierarchy and Mao's anointed heir, disappeared. Whether he is dead or merely under house arrest, no one on the outside can say. How many of his immediate aides went with him is also a guess. Tales of Lin Piao's fate percolating out to Hong Kong are so fantastic they can hardly be credited.

The entire top military command disappeared. For a number of weeks flights by military aircraft were cancelled. The crash of a mysterious Chinese plane in Outer Mongolia gave rise to more rumors of attempted defection and retaliation. All of this, it should be noted, in six months. None of this has been reported out of China itself, if only because secrecy is so strictly kept.

WITH SEEMINGLY a firm grip at the top are Mao, 78, and Chou, 74. They have given the army an important role in every aspect of life in building back from the destruction of the cultural revolution. But has the power struggle ended? And did that power struggle involve opposition to the Nixon visit? The answers, still locked in the mystery of a China slowly and guardedly opening to the outside world, are vital to what Chou in his toast to the President referred to as the "normalization" of relations between the two nations.

There is no doubt the Chinese are realists. A recent visitor reported that they had deliberately put their stake on President Nixon for another four years and a continuation of the dialogue with a Republican in the White House. They knew the widely televised visit would give him a boost. It is a safe guess that "working for peace" in Peking will lift him three or four points in the Gallup poll. The bids of two leading Democrats, George McGovern and Edward M. Kennedy, for an earlier visit were spurned. Above all, Chou, the master negotiator, is a realist. His stern, uncompromising face, as he listened to the President's toast, was convincing proof of that.

Obvious Presidential Campaign: 'Elect Joe For Higher Taxes'

By RICHARD L. STROUT

WASHINGTON, D.C. — My friend Joe called on me the other day to ask me to help him with his political campaign.

"But Joe," I expostulated, "you are a well-established businessman; you don't like politics, I wouldn't think you'd want to be elected to anything."

"I don't," he explained simply, "and I have thought of that. I have thought of a way to run for office with maximum exposure and minimum chance of getting elected. I have thought of a slogan that is not apt to be duplicated. It's simply, 'higher taxes.' "

"What?" I exclaimed incredulously.

"YES," SAID JOE complacently, "I doubt if any of my rivals will use that. First I thought of trying to sell it to Senator Muskie but after I explained it to his office they said politely that he was spending a few days in Florida. Then I tried it on the White House but the President was getting ready for his trip to Peking."

"But higher taxes, Joe!" I pleaded. "Don't you know the public is already pretty sore about federal finances; don't you know we're facing a deficit this year of almost $40 billion?"

"Well yes, exactly," said my friend. "And what does a nation do to fill up the deficit when it's running in the red? It raises revenues. Do you realize that we have cut taxes by $50 billion in the last few years? Why it's simple, you just have to restore some of those taxes that we have cut off. Mr. Nixon himself is beginning to talk about higher taxes. I'm getting in ahead of the crowd. Mr. Nixon is moving toward a national sales tax. That will be a money-raiser. Here's economist Richard Lindholm writing in the Morgan Guaranty Bank's Survey that a 10 per cent national consumer tax would raise at least $60 billion for the Treasury."

"I THOUGHT YOU opposed sales taxes, Joe; I thought you said they are regressive and lay most of the burden on the poor?"

"Well, they do. But Mr. Nixon tells us in his budget message that he has saved us $22 billion by reducing federal graduated income taxes since he took office. 'This change,' he says, 'is as remarkable as it has been unremarked.' "

"But Joe," I said, "doesn't a cut in graduated income taxes mean more to the well-to-do? There are 3,000 American families who have incomes of a million dollars a year, and about 10 million whose income is around $3,000 or less. If you cut income taxes 5 per cent it saves the top bracket family (70 per cent) about $35,000 a year, and it doesn't save the poor family anything because they don't pay income taxes."

"There is that slight flaw in the sales tax," admitted Joe. "It does fall hardest on the poor. Still it will be difficult to restore rates in the income tax, I'm afraid; Mr. Nixon has made such a thing about cutting them. But anyway," he said brightening, "the goal is the same, the thing we need now is higher taxes. Do you realize the national debt is presently $430 billion and Mr. Nixon wants to raise it $50 billion? It scares me."

"YOU'VE FORGOTTEN one thing," I expostulated, "there are two ways to end red ink. The other way is just not to spend as much."

"Yes," said Joe, "I've thought of that. It's a little difficult, though. America is growing and cutting costs is like telling a growing boy that we're going to save money by buying him smaller shoes. Of course, we could save money by getting out of Vietnam, or cutting down on the Pentagon, or maybe postponing that moonflight."

Sometimes Joe is quite exasperating. "Everybody wants to save money there," I protested, "but you know how hard it is. Mr. Nixon is going to ask more for defense not less; and as for the moon shot we don't want to let the Russians get ahead of us. And taxes have reached the point where they are intolerable. There's a taxpayers' revolt."

"That's one of the things I was going to explain in my campaign," said Joe eagerly. "Actually, taxes in America are less than they are in the other big industrial countries. I mean federal, state, and local taxes compared with the burden abroad. This is according to United Nations comparative statistics." Seeing my doubtful expression he went on, "Anyway, why can't we get more taxes simply by closing loopholes? The Joint Economic Committee under Senator Proxmire last month estimated that federal subsidies cost the taxpayer $63 billion a year; that's $308 for every man, woman, and child in the country, and it's about a fourth of all the federal government spends in the year."

I saw it was no use arguing with a man like that: I mean somebody who takes far-out positions. I watched him go off in his sound truck, the Don Quixote, with his absurd slogan: "End the U.S. deficit; elect Joe Butterworth for higher taxes."

Opponents Of Development Overlook Schultz Beneficences

Schultz Building Co. of Greenbrae has been under an increasingly heavy criticism while seeking to develop the remnants of its extensive Greenbrae holdings.

Times have changed for Marin developers. They now face increasing opposition from residents fearful of losing the remaining open space. But one aspect of the Schultz family company — its charity — has remained immune from fire. The Schultz Foundation has contributed about $150,000 to various causes, mostly in Marin, since it was founded in 1954.

It is headed octogenarian octagenarian Niels J. Schultz Sr. with assistance from his wife, the vice president; son, Niels Jr., the secretary, and daughter-in-law, Barbara, the treasurer.

IN JANUARY the younger Schultz promised his family foundation will chip in at least $20,000 toward a new Larkspur police station expected to cost between $100,000 and $125,000.

During the foundation's fiscal year, which ended Nov. 30, It handed out $7,710, about $15,000 less than its gross income. Most of the revenue pumped into the foundation is from interest on mortgages, according to J. Rex Gardner, controller of Schultz Building Co.

Largest beneficiaries of the foundation last year were the Linear Accelerator Fund of Marin General Hospital, $2,500; the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints in Greenbrae, $1,000; St. John's Episcopal Church in Ross, $1,300, and the Redwood International Student Exchange, $1,000.

Smaller sums went to health and service groups and youth organizations.

This year, Gardner said, the foundation has contributed $1,000 to the Young Men's Christian Association.

A major recipient of Schultz money in the past was the City of Millbrae, another area where the Schultz family built extensively. Gardner said the city was given $13,000 to build a park.

He said Larkspur has received $8,500 over the years, including $2,000 for the library in 1969. Marin General Hospital has received about $7,000 and the Boy Scouts about $10,000.

BUT THE CHARITABLE gifts are often overlooked in the attacks on the Schultz company's most recent apartment developments.

The firm's apartments along Corte Madera Creek and on Bon Air Hill have been attacked by a segment of Larkspur residents as overly dense eyesores, in some cases threatening the natural beauty of the creek basin.

The criticism shows the difference a decade makes. In 1961, Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, introduced a resolution in the state Assembly complimenting the elder Schultz on 50 years in the construction industry. It noted that Schultz has "led the way to a better equalization and realization of Marin County's natural beauty and the necessary construction of new homes."

It also pjised Schultz for donating land for Greenbrae School, the Mormon Church in Greenbrae, and a Larkspur site, not to mention the beneficences of the Schultz Foundation.

Guilty Plea To Forgery Count

Pamela Mae Wilson, 20, of Fairfax, has pleaded guilty in Marin Superior Court to a charge of forging a credit card sales slip.

A second count of receiving stolen property was dismissed by Judge Samuel W. Gardiner in accordance with a plea bargain struck with the district attorneys office.

Miss Wilson, who also faces four felony counts of check charges in municipal court, is to be sentenced April 3.

She was arrested Nov. 1 in a Sausalito shop where she attempted to try to use someone else's credit card.

Fern, Clara And Mary Jane Explain Zero Population Growth

WASHINGTON — The latest news from the Census Bureau is that younger women are refusing to have children, and the United States is fast approaching a "zero population growth" rate. This means the death rate and birth rate figures in the country will soon be even.

Disturbed by this information, I sought out three young ladies in a coffeehouse to find out what had gone wrong. Their names were Fern, Clara and Mary Jane, and they were sitting with three boys — Harry, Fred and Claude.

"LADIES," I SAID, "I have just read in the newspapers that women in this country only had an average of 2.4 children in 1971 as opposed to 2.9 children in 1967, and if the trend continues they will be down to 2.1 in a few years which could mean zero population growth. How can you explain it?"

"Who wants kids?" Fern asked.

"But," I said, "that is the role of women — to reproduce their own kind."

"That's the point," Clara said. "Who wants to reproduce people like us?"

"I don't understand," I said.

CLARA SAID, "It's a generation problem. Your generation had a high opinion of yourselves. You thought you were wonderful people — brave, strong, honest, law-abiding, productive and God-fearing. Therefore you wanted to reproduce more of the same.

"You assumed that your offspring would be just like you and you wanted to flood the country with little copies of yourself.

"Well, it didn't work out that way," Clara concluded. "You produced an entirely different breed and we've decided we don't want any more like us because we can't stand each other."

"WHY SHOULD WE make babies who are as unhappy and miserable as we are?" Mary Jane asked.

"I don't want any kids like Harry," Fern said.

"But," Harry protested, "you're my girlfriend."

"I don't mind you as my boyfriend," Fern said, "but I couldn't stand you as my son."

"It's true. I could never think of raising a Claude or Fred. I wouldn't have the stomach for it."

"That isn't a nice thing to say," Fred said defensively.

"WELL," CLARA REPLIED, "Would you like to be the father of Fern or Mary Jane or Harry or Claude?"

"I wouldn't even want to be the father of me," Fred said.

"If I understand you," I said, "the reason why you don't want to have babies is that you're afraid they'll all turn out like you."

"You got it, Pops," Fern said. "We know what we've done to our parents, and we're not about to let our kids do that to us."

Clara said, "I couldn't hassle with my kids the way I hassle with my mother. I'd go up the wall."

"But," I protested, "if all of you feel that way, the American people — the greatest, most magnificent and wondrous people the world has even seen — could go down the drain."

"IT'S NOT our fault," Mary Jane said. "We're physically but not mentally equipped for it."

Fern said, "Once the country gets down to zero population growth, I might reconsider the whole proposition. But at the moment, I'd rather take the money it costs to raise a child and go to Europe."

"Even buying a Honda motorcycle," Harry said, "would be more fun than having a kid like me."

Burglary Case Is Dismissed

A charge of burglarizing a Mill Valley residence against Ernest Biard, 18, of San Francisco, has been dismissed in Marin Municipal Court because witnesses were unable to identify him as the man who entered the house.

He was accused of burglarizing the Robert Okun residence on Montford Avenue Oct. 26.

Biard still faces a trial in superior court in connection with an armed robbery in San Rafael Oct. 29.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

The Shutout Play Should Be Made Even If You're Not Sure

A locked door keeps out honest men as well as burglars, and you can't always be sure whom you are shutting out. Still, this is not a convincing argument against locks. At the bridge table you must sometimes make a play that will shut one of the opponents out of the lead. If he happens to be the harmless opponent, your play will be ineffective; but there is always the chance that you are preventing the villain from doing any mischief.

Opening lead — ♡ 10

AVOIDS TRAP

West opens the ten of hearts, and you put up dummy's king even though you feel sure that East has the ace. You want to make it easy for the enemy to continue with the hearts.

East takes the ace of hearts and avoids your little trap. Instead of returning a comfortable heart, he switches to a trump.

This gives you a headache. You plan to ruff three diamonds in the dummy. The opponents will defeat you if they manage to lead two rounds of trumps, for then dummy will have only two trumps for ruffling diamonds.

You win with the ace of spades and lead a diamond to get rid of dummy's singleton. You are now in position to ruff diamonds with dummy's trumps.

By the way, which diamond did you lead from your hand?

STRANGE LEAD

A strange diamond lead is necessary. You know that only one opponent has a trump left in his hand. You hope to lose the diamond trick to the opponent who has no more trumps. You don't know which opponent that is.

The correct play is to lead the king of diamonds. Only one opponent can win that trick, and you must hope that the opponent who has the ace of diamonds does not have the only missing trump.

GOES DOWN

If you lead a low diamond (instead of the king), either opponent can win the trick. The opponent who has the missing trump will make sure of winning the diamond trick; and then his trump return will defeat the contract.

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer, you hold:
♠- 4
♥- 10 6
♦- A Q 10 9 7 3
♣- K 9 6 2.
What do you say?

ANSWER: Pass.

The hand is not quite worth a bid in first or second position. Don't strain to open the bidding on a substandard hand when your only length is in the minor suits.

Guilty Plea To Burglary

Robert Elton Yates, 19, of San Rafael, pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin Superior Court to a charge of burglarizing the Oakview Club on Lea Drive in San Rafael.

He is to be sentenced April 3.

Yates was arrested after a break-in of the private club, from which liquor was taken.

Burglary Case Warrant Out

A bench warrant with bail set at $5,000 was issued yesterday in Marin Municipal Court for Sharon L. Protzel, 22, of Woodacre, accused of burglarizing a San Anselmo residence Jan. 11.

Miss Protzel failed to show up for a preliminary hearing on the charge.

Experimental Class Schedule Approved

The San Rafael Board of Education has approved an experimental class schedule reorganization at Terra Linda High School.

As proposed by Terra Linda Principal Frank A. Stocking, the school day will be changed from six 53-minute periods to seven 45-minute sessions.

The seventh session will be a voluntary open period, during which students can work on projects, meet with teachers or counselors, make up missed examinations or other activities.

According to Supt. John F. Plank, the board wondered Tuesday night if students might just skip the voluntary seventh period and go home, but Plank said schools bus schedules will not be changed and teachers will set up appointments with students in an effort to see that the plan works.

In approving the plan, which will be effective Monday, the board asked Stocking to prepare a statement of the objectives of the changed schedule and standards for measuring its effectiveness, for presentation to the board March 14.

The San Rafael Board of Education Also:

SUMMER — Received reports on plans for summer school. The elementary schools plan includes a $43,034 balanced budget, but the $49,250 budget proposed for the high schools was $23,000 over estimated revenues, Plank said. The board directed staff to attempt to cut the proposed deficit to around $12,000 or $15,000.

COURSES — Approved two new social studies courses — The French and Revolution in the Modern World — for offering next year in the high schools.

CALENDAR — Adopted a 1972-73 school calendar running from Sept. 11, 1972 to June 15, 1973.

PROPOSITION — Endorsed a state proposition on the June 6 ballot seeking voter approval of $350 million in state school bonds for replacing school facilities considered unsafe in earthquakes.

AGE — Denied a petition — saying it did not want to make policy exceptions — from Eva Goetschius, English teacher at Terra Linda High School, to continue teaching next year although she will be beyond the mandatory retirement age of 65.

GIFTS — Accepted a used refrigerator for West End School from Mr. and Mrs. Don Wellington and a trumpet, two mutes and assorted music for San Rafael High School music department from Arthur Nichols.

PERSONNEL — Accepted the resignation, for personal reasons, of Virginia Brennan, first grade teacher at Laurel Dell School, and granted a leave of absence from Feb. 28 to April 3 to Margie Belrose, instructional aide at Santa Venetia Middle School.

APPOINTMENTS — Hired Sherrill Fisher and LuDean Varner as substitute bus drivers at $3.29 an hour; Eleanor Hayes, Robyn Hughes, Olga Menhams, Sally Muggenthaler and Rebecca Preble as instructional aides at $2.64 an hour for the remainder of the 1971-72 school year; Kenneth Meade as a teacher at Madrone High School for $4,869 for the remainder of the school year, and Bruce Nicander and Elmo Sirard as substitute custodians at $3.29 an hour.

MEETING — Adjourned to a closed session at 7:30 p.m. March 7 at the school office to consider appointment of teachers for the 1972-73 school year. Any action stemming from the meeting will be taken March 14, Plank said.

Access Road Shut For Construction

The state Division of Highways has closed off access to Willow Avenue in San Rafael from Highway 101 to build a southbound off-ramp to Merrydale Avenue.

Edward W. Gregoritch, resident engineer, said Las Gallinas Avenue nearby will still connect to the highway.

Party Will Launch Hub Town Series

A San Anselmo Town party at 8 p.m. March 4 at Robson House will kick off the 1972 Town Meeting series which will be held on the following two Monday and Wednesday nights.

Cochairman J. Michael Anthony and William L. Montgomery said the party was planned to create interest in the meetings and give San Anselmo residents a chance to meet socially before the serious meetings begin.

The town meetings will discuss transportation March 6, housing March 8, environment March 13 and social dilemmas March 15.

All the meetings will begin at 8 p.m. at Red Hill School.

Profits from the party, which will include music, dancing and refreshments, will be used to help defray expenses of the town meetings.

Ticket information may be obtained from Martha Montgomery of 10 Black Hawk Drive, according to spokesman Julie Mathews.

Concert Sunday

Shanti, a musical group which blends eastern musical instruments' style and rhythms with western rock style, will present a concert at 9 p.m. Sunday at the Bermuda Palms in San Rafael.

Big Welfare Roll Drop Announced

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Gov. Ronald Reagan said yesterday the number of Californians on welfare decreased by 182,600 between last March and January—the largest 10-month drop in 30 years.

In a statement issued by his office, the governor said the decline was proof that his "reform" program "has brought welfare back under control in California."

Reagan also reported that the welfare rolls dropped by 8,300 in January to total 2,110,926—the first December-to-January decline since 1948.

"These figures represent a tremendous accomplishment for California," he said, "especially when one realizes that our welfare rolls were increasing at the staggering rate of some 40,000 a month until our welfare reforms took hold last March. Since then, the number of Californians on welfare has declined steadily."

Reagan said that "had welfare gone unreformed in California," there would be 538,000 more persons on welfare rolls than there currently are, according to state Social Welfare Department projections.

"The cost of the increase in caseload would have amounted to an additional $148 million burden for taxpayers" in federal, state and local taxes, Reagan said.

The governor also said that between December and January the total cost of welfare in California dropped by $2.26 million to total $160,109,157.

Reagan took issue with some federal officials and others who contend that decrease in California's welfare caseload is the result of declining unemployment and not welfare "reform."

"California's welfare caseload dropped steadily for six straight months before the first significant drop in the unemployment rate occurred," he said.

The Social Welfare Department's figures showed that the number of persons on county relief rose by 447 to total 57,580 in January.

Nun Testifies On 'Mail Drop' Role

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI)— The government produced a second nun today who testified that she served as a "mail drop" for Sister Elizabeth McAlister who, it charges, received a letter in 1970 from the Rev. Philip F. Berrigan threatening to kidnap presidential aide Henry F. Kissinger.

The witness, Sister Grace Marie Russell, testified that at Sister Elizabeth's request she received letters postmarked Lewisburg, Pa., during the summer of 1970 and as late as December of that year. They were addressed to her, Sister Grace said, but by agreement were passed on unopened to Sister Elizabeth.

She opened one by mistake, the nun;testified, but read no further than the salutation: "Dear Liz."

One count in the indictment against the Harrisburg Seven charges that Berrigan, on Aug. 22, 1970, while in Lewisburg Federal Prison, sent Sister Elizabeth a letter threatening to kidnap Kissinger. The letter was said to describe President Nixon's national security adviser as "brainchild," "pea brain," and "our angel."

The seven are charged also with plotting to sabotage Washington heating tunnels and vandalize draft boards to escalate public notice of their antiwar drive.

Sister Grace was the 20th government witness in its drive to send the seven defendants to prison. The maximum term for Berrigan could be 50 years and for Sister Elizabeth 40 years if convicted.

Sister Grace is a teacher at the Marymount Manhattan School operated by the Sacred Heart nuns and Sister Elizabeth is on leave from her job as art teacher at the Tarrytown, N. Y., branch of the school."

Berrigan Is Released From Prison

DANBURY, Conn. (UPI)— The Rev. Daniel Berrigan was released today on restricted parole from federal prison, terminating his self-styled status as a "man without a country" and an "exile at home."

The ailing 51-year-old Jesuit served 18 months of a three year term for destroying draft records at Catonsville, Md., in 1968.

While he was in the Federal Correction Institute he felt his citizenship had been suspended and referred to himself and his brother, Philip, as "exiles."

His brother, the Rev. Philip F. Berrigan, is on trial at Harrisburg, Pa., on Federal charges that he and six others plotted to kidnap Henry A. Kissinger, presidential adviser, to publicize anti-war sentiment.

Berrigan left the fortress-like structure overlooking the snow-swept Connecticut hills at 8:35 a.m. His first words to newsmen and wellwishers were: "Hello! hello! hello!"

Reporters asked, "How do you feel?" He replied, "Free." He was asked, "How were you treated?" He answered, "Average."

The Roman Catholic priest said he plans to go to New York this weekend for his mother's 90th birthday.

After the brief session with newsmen outside the prison, Father Berrigan and supporters left for nearby St. Gregory's Church for a scheduled interfaith service.

He was imprisoned following his capture on Block Island, R.I., in August 1970.

He had been sentenced Nov. 8, 1968, but he did not begin serving his sentence until Aug. 11, 1970, having eluded authorities for nine months.

He was indicted along with his brother Philip in the Harrisburg case, but the grand jury later dropped his name when it presented new indictments.

Pro-Death Group Plans State Drive

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — The California Correctional Officers Association announced yesterday it will mount a statewide petition effort to place the death penalty issue before voters in November.

Capital punishment was adjudged unconstitutional last week by the state Supreme Court.

Moe Camacho, a Soledad Prison guard and president of the 3,200-member association, said the group will seek to restore the death penalty through a constitutional amendment.

Camacho said the association expected "little, if any, difficulty" obtaining the required 520,806 signatures to qualify the mater for the ballot.

"The correctional officer is obviously adversely affected by the court's decision to rule out capital punishment," Camacho said, "but the real issue here involves the lives, safety and well-being of every citizen in this state."

Car Case To Superior Court

Gary Clyde Kruger, 20, of no known address, has been bound over to Marin Superior Court on a charge of stealing a car in San Anselmo and driving it to Orange County.

He is to appear in court March 8.

Kruger was stopped by Anaheim police Feb. 9 who noticed two bald tires and a cracked windshield on the car he was driving.

Police said Kruger and a girl hitchhiker attempted to escape on foot but both were captured.

The girl was released, but Kruger was turned over to Marin authorities when a check revealed the car had been stolen from a San Anselmo residence.

Marin Tars' Cage Title Dreams Dashed, 60-52

By RALPH CHATOIAN
I-J Sports Editor

CAMPBELL — Unless you believe in Hans Christian Andersen or Mother Goose, College of Marin's chances to make the state basketball playoffs are dead.

The near fatal blow came when West Valley Junior College outhustled and outplayed the Tars, 60-52. At precisely the same time in San Pablo, Contra Costa College was whipping Skyline College of San Bruno, 105-93.

That leaves Contra Costa on top of the Camino Norte Conference standings with a record of 12 wins and one loss and Marin second, 11-2. Contra Costa winds up the season Saturday in Santa Rosa against the sixth place Bear Cubs (3-10) while Marin travels to San Bruno to take on Skyline (8-5) in another final game.

Things do not look good, my friends.

If results follow form Saturday, the Tars will wind up with an overall season record of 26-3 but no titles to show for it. Marin has yet to beat West Valley in Campbell in four years of CNC play there.

College of Marin fans were bitterly complaining about the officiating after last night;s game but the referees — Charles Camuso and Charles Range — were making calls that bewildered both sides.

"Have you ever seen anything like it?" asked Marin coach John Panagakis after the game, casting an angry look toward the refs. But West Valley coach Larry Jennings did his share of shouting at some of the out of bounds and foul calls, too. Most observers would be surprised to learn that Camuso is a former part-time National Basketball Association referee.

But the refs didn't actually decide the game. More important was the hustling play of West Valley's cagers. What they lacked in height (tallest players on the team were 6-4) they more than made up for in hustle. And they really caught Marin on an off night.

"It's one of those nights when everyone is off," said a dejected Panagakis after the game. Marin committed a total of 19 turnovers to 15 for West Valley. That turned out to be the difference.

It was a very close first half, the lead changing hands seven times. The Vikings took a five-point lead at 30-25 but three straight Marin baskets — jump shots by freshman forward Joe Casteel and guard Joe Smith and a hook by 6-foot-6 center Roosevelt Green — put Marin in front by one. West Valley's Rick Hile hit a 20-footer just before the buzzer to give the Vikings a slight advantage at half, 32-31.

But the second half was all West Valley.

Casteel tied the score with a free throw to start the half, but a fielder by the Vikings' Marty Smith started West Valley on an eight-point tear and the score was suddenly 40-32. Marin never caught the Vikes from there, although at one time it looked like the tide would turn when Green scored a three-point play, making a basket despite a foul and converting a free throw, to narrow the gap to three points, 48-45, six minutes remaining.

There was a lot of time left, but West Valley went into a stall and promptly threw the ball away. The Tars blew the opportunity by losing the ball themselves and then Hile made a fielder and Ken Robertson a free throw to end the Tars' threat.

Marin's Joe Smith padded his already earned school scoring record (now 1,128 points in two years) with a 16-point production before fouling out with 33 seconds left, and Green added 15 points. West Valley's Smith (Marty) was their high scorer, too, with 13 points.

Marin made 18 of its 40 shots from the field, 45 per cent, and 16 of 24 free throws, 67 per cent. West Valley made 21 of 48 (44 per cent) from the field and 14 of 21 (67 per cent) from the free throw line. Marin had the rebound edge, 33-26. Marin was called for 20 fouls, West Valley 18.

Scoring summary:

San Marin Won't Replay Marin 'Cats

San Marin High School will not replay the remainder of its protested basketball game with Marin Catholic, but instead will forfeit the game, basketball coach Andy Frauenhofer announced yesterday.

"We want to remember the game as it actually ended in victory (for San Marin) and give Marin Catholic the win in the standings," said Frauenhofer in a prepared statement.

The development improves Marin Catholic's record in the MCAL to 5-8 and reduces San Marin's to 2-11. The score will enter the record books as 56-54, the score at the point of the protest, said MCAL commissioner George Corson.

"It is unfortunate that our league has the power to overrule the official basketball rules book, which does not recognize protests," the San Marin statement concluded.

Frauenhofer said the rule book of the National Federation of State High School Associations states, "it is the policy of the national basketball committee of the United States and Canada that it does not recognize protests."

A three-man protest committee convened under the aegis of the MCAL board of managers (principals) ruled last Friday that the game should be replayed from the spot of the dispute.

The ruling would have given Marin Catholic the ball out of bounds under San Marin's basket with the 56-54 lead and one second remaining in the game. In the original game Jan. 28, a referee instructed the Marin Catholic player at that point not to move laterally while attempting to throw the ball inbounds, and when the player did, the officials awarded the ball to San Marin, at which point Marin Catholic protested.

California Golden Seals Blow 5-Goal Lead, 8-6

SEAL SAILS — California Golden Seals' Dick Redmond plummeted face first after scoring opening period goal last night against the Boston Bruins in the Oakland Coliseum-Arena. Redmond's cohort Gary Croteau (18) looked on with the referee. The acrobatics were apparently not enough as the Bruins rallied for an 8-6 victory. (UPI Telephoto)

Vadnais In Bruin Debut

By DAVID DIETZ

OAKLAND — Everything was strange to Carol Vadnais last night as he sat quietly in the Boston Bruins' dressing room at the Coliseum Arena, rubbing his perspiring head with a towel.

The quarters were new, since he had been accustomed to the dressing room down the hall occupied by his former squad, the California Seals. And not five feet away sat a new teammate, none other than rangy Phil Esposito, the National Hockey League's leading scorer. Bobby Orr was there, too, answering questions for a radio newsman.

But all that was circumstance when Vadnais recalled the incredible events of the previous two-and-a-half hours that brought cheer to the Bruins and gloom to the Seals. In the space of a period and a half, the marauding Bruins, helped by Fred Stanfield's three-goal hat trick, had methodically wiped out a 6-1 deficit to skate off as 8-6 victors.

Things, clearly, were never like this with the struggling Seals, from whom Boston acquired Vadnais late Tuesday for three younger players.

"It was 6-3," said Vadnais, his voice rising in awe, "and the guys said let's not give them any more goals, we're going to win."

And win they did, scoring five times in the final period and seven consecutive goals in all against a Seal team that appeared mesmerized. Vadnais shared a sense of disbelief with the sellout crowd over it all, although many of his teammates seemed to consider the outcome all in a day's carefree work.

"No problem, 8-6," said Vadnais in a dumbfounded tone. He shot a glance at Esposito.

"Naw, no problem," said Esposito with a laugh.

There were lots of problems, meanwhile, in the California dressing room down the hall.

"We got our points and started running away with it," said Seals' coach Vic Stasiuk. "Then we just stopped checking. That's it in a nutshell."

Squandering leads has become an ugly trait of the Seals lately, but neither Stasiuk nor Garry Young, the club's general manager, has found a way to stop it. Along the way last night, the Seals slipped out of third place in the NHL West as the St. Louis Blues beat Los Angeles.

California hopes the Vadnais trade, which brought burly winger Reg Leach and defensemen Rick Smith and Bob Stewart to the Seals, will take the club into the playoffs. Both Leach, who scored more than 180 goals in three years as a junior, and Smith, a capable player, performed well last night, despite the Boston onslaught.

Leach made a crisp goalmouth pass to set up one of two scores by winger Gary Croteau, and Smith assisted on Wayne Carleton's 14th tally of the season. Defenseman Dick Redmond also scored twice for California.

Stanfield might have had four goals, but was thwarted by Seals' goalie Gilles Meloche on a rare penalty shot in the second period. The attempt was set p when defenseman Bert Marshall tripped the Boston centerman on a breakaway.

Esposito and Orr, meanwhile, had a fine night, too, compiling a total of three goals and four assists, with Espo getting the tying and winning tallies.

As for Vadnais, whose play was ragged, he admits to a new hockey life, going from an expansion club to a squad which figures as the clear favorite to win the Stanley Cup.

AMERICAN BASKETBALL ASSOCIATION

NCAA Sues Cage Loop

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — The NCAA, often a defendant in legal action, today was a plaintiff.

Through Executive Director Walter Byers, the NCAA filed suit in Delaware County Court in Media, Pa., Wednesday to enjoin the American Basketball Association from concealing further secret signings of collegiate players with eligibility remaining.

Former Villavnoa basketball star Howard Porter and the ABA were named as defendants in the petition which asked for general and special damages totaling $116,663.

The legal action was the first ever undertaken by the NCAA. Byers said the NCAA often is a defendant, averaging three legal suits a year in the last five years.

Porter had signed a statement to Villanova Athletic Director Art Mahan in which he denied that he had signed a contract with any ABA club or with the league. He also stated he had no agent and did not enter into any verbal agreement with anyone in regard to his basketball future.

Porter also swore to an affidavit Feb. 4, 1971, making the same denials.

Villanova, because of his sworn testimony, and the NCAA allowed Porter to finish his eligibility. Porter led the Wildcats to a second-place finish in the NCAA tournament last March.

Later it was revealed that Porter indeed had signed with the ABA and Pittsburgh. When he also signed a National Basketball Association contract with the Chicago Bulls, with whom he now is performing, his previous contracts became a matter of public record.

The action forced Villanova to forfeit its runnerup finish and its share of the NCAA tourney receipts—$72,347.84.

Byers said that further secret signings "not only are possible but probable." Currently, he said, no individual is under investigation by the NCAA.

A's Open Training, Sans Vida

MESA, Ariz. (UPI)—Vida Blue, Darold Knowles and two rookie pitchers will be the only batterymen missing today when the Oakland A's begin workouts at their spring training base in Rendezvous Park.

Pitchers Diego Segui and Chris Floethe agreed to terms with owner Charlie Finley Wednesday and were expected to be on hand today when manager Dick Williams rings the bell for the first time in 1972.

Blue is holed up in his home in Mansfield, Ala., leaving his agent to continue negotiations with Finley, but the A's owner said he won't budge from his "final" offer of $50,000 for the 1971 American League Cy Young and Most Valuable Player award winner.

Blue started out by asking for $115,000 but since has come down to $85,000 and he says he won't go any lower.

Finley, back in Oakland, said he hasn't heard from Knowles, who was picked up in midseason 1971 from Washington and was a big help as a late reliever in the final two months of the year.

The other unsigned pitchers are rookies Dave Hamilton and Gilberto Marcano.

Also without a contract is second baseman Dick Green, but he talked with Finley by phone Wednesday and said he was on his way to camp and will continue negotiations here. Finley convinced Green to give up a short retirement, and obviously sweetened the offer with a raise. Green hit .244 with 12 homers and 49 runs batted in last year as the A's won the A.L. West.

MALTZBERGER

Bullpen Aide Added By Giants

CASA GRANDE, Ariz. (UPI) —The San Francisco Giants announced Wednesday that Gordon Maltzberger has been signed to assist Don McMahon in the bullpen.

Manager Charlie Fox said Maltzberger, 59, a former hurler with Chicago White Sox, will handle the bullpen when McMahon is actually on the mound.

Maltzberger will also take tours through the Giants minor league system, "observing and instructing the kid pitchers," Fox said.

"We feel there is a growing tendency to overinstruct," said Fox. "Once a pitcher makes it as high as the majors he should be advanced beyond the point of requiring instruction. If he hasn't larned his art by then there is no way a coach can teach him 'stuff.' He either has it or he hasn't."

The Giants also announced they will send former coach Wes Westrum "into the field" to expand their scouting coverage of the National League. Westrum, a former San Francisco catcher, has been the Giants' first base coach the past several seasons.

HEARING ON CAGE BRAWL

Big Ten Aides To Sit Out Case

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UPI) —Three Big Ten athletic directors volunteered to sit in but to disqualify themselves from voting in a hearing which convened today on the lifting of the suspensions of two University of Minnesota basketball players.

Attorneys for juniors Ron Behagen and Corky Taylor said as the hearing began that Ohio State athletic director Ed Weaver, Michigan athletic director Don Canham, and Minnesota athletic director Paul Giel would not have a say in the athletic directors' final decision in the court-ordered hearing.

None of the three would comment, but Indiana athletic director Bill Orwick confirmed that such an agreement had been made.

Behagen and Taylor were suspended for their !arts in a Jan. 25 brawl with Ohio State players that ended the game early.

Ron Simon, attorney for Taylor, said Wednesday night that he expected Big Ten attorneys and conference Commissioner Wayne Duke to discourage Weaver and Canham from participating to improve chances of a "fair hearing."

Giel said he would not be surprised if asked to disqualify himself.

Duke said a decision would not be announced until U.S. District Court Judge Earl Larson, who Tuesday ordered the hearing, had been informed. Larson ruled that Duke, who conducted a two-day investigation of the incident, had power to suspend the players "temporarily."

Greg Cook Undergoes Surgery

Cook, American Football League rookie of the year in 1969, hurt his shoulder that first season against Kansas City. Two operations later, he was still unable to regain his winning form and did not play at all last year.

Collins said Cook was "in good spirits," but he would not predict whether the operation would allow the quarterback ever to play again.

"If He were a receiver or a halfback, there would be no question," Collins said, "but being a passer, you just don't know."

Detroit Pistons Visit Golden State Tonight

OAKLAND (UPI) —The Golden State Warriors host the Detroit Pistons at the Oakland Coliseum Arena tonight, hoping that their last contest with the Pistons this year will give them a perfect 5-0 mark against the Midwest Division club.

Though the Warriors enjoy a 4-0 record against the Pistons, coach Al Attles bristled at the suggestion that the club is an easy mark for the Warriors.

"Not with three guys averaging over 20, they're not," Attles said, speaking of Dave Bing, Jimmy Walker, and Bob Lanier.

Bing had 33, Walker 27 and Lanier 31 points in Tuesday's Piston victory over the Los Angeles Lakers.

The Pistons have been scoring more than the Warriors — 108 versus 106 per game, but the Warriors are allowing less points—105 versus 114 a game for Detroit.

The Warriors are in sole possession of second place in the NBA Pacific Division after Tuesday's 16-point victory over Seattle.

The combination returned a $1,206 payoff. In the feature event, Bold Jil held off a closing charge by Lulutorch to win the Booth Memorial Purse by a neck.

The track also announced that 18-year-olds will be permitted to bet starting March 3.

Chicago's Allen Says Yes To Pact

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Richie Allen said "yes" to a reported $120,000 contract Wednesday but Chicago White Sox General Manager Stu Holcomb wants to see his newly acquired star -ign on the dotted line.

Allen, who was obtained from the Los Angeles Dodgers during the winter, has not appeared at the Sox' spring training headquarters in Sarasota, Fla., and all negotiations have been handled by Alfred Morris, his financial advisor in Philadelphia.

"We reached an agreement to terms to the point that when Allen comes down here we can sit down and sign," said Holcomb after a long-distance phone conversation with Morris.

Holcomb also signed outfielder Jay Johnstone and infielder Luis Alvarado.

The world champion Pittsburgh Pirates came to terms with Nelson Briles, the hero of the fifth game of the World Series and their last holdout.

Briles, who pitched a two-hit shutout against the Baltimore Orioles, will work out for the first time today, a week after Pirate pitchers were scheduled to report.

The signing of Tim Foli, Ted Martinez, Ken Boswell and Ken Singleton by the New York Mets, left only one player—Don Hahn unsigned. Hahn's whereabouts are unknown but the reserve outfielder is believed to be on his way to Florida from California.

Slugger Frank Howard remained a holdout with the Texas Rangers and General Manager Joe Burke said that the club had "gone as far as we intend to on negotiations. The next move is up to Frank." Catcher Dick Billings is the only other unsigned Ranger.

The Cleveland Indians raised its number of signed players to 33 when pitchers Steve Hargan, Dick Seminoff and Larry Crossan all inked contracts.

Despite the signing of Stan Williams, Jim Bibby, Joe Grzenda, Al Hrabosky and Marty Martinez, the St. Louis Cardinals still were left with 16 players, mostly starters, who have not agreed to terms.

With a full squad workout scheduled for today, Billy Williams remained the only Chicago Cub still unsigned. The Cubs' leading hitter, who received $100,000 last season, said he expected "no difficulty" with General Manager John Holland.

Reliever Sparky Lyle came to terms with the Boston Red Sox, leaving only first baseman Mike Fiore unsigned. However, pitcher Sonny Siebert, 16-10 last year, has refused to work out with the club and wants to renegotiate a two-year contract he signed last year.

The Kansas City Royals were left with eight unsigned players when pitcher Bruce Del Canton and first baseman Fran Ortenzio signed contracts.

The New York Yankees immediately took Frank Baker's name off its list of unsigned when the weak hitting shortstop arrived in camp insisting he had "signed last Friday." Baker said he returned his signed contract to Yankee Stadium. General Manager Lee MacPhail was not aware of the mixup. "I was no holdout," said Baker. Everyone knows the kind of year I had last year. How could I possibly holdout." Baker hit only .139.

Mike Torres became the 30th player to sign with the Montreal Expos but Carl Morton, Mike Marshall, Rusty Staub, Keith Lampard and Ron Hunt still were listed as holdouts.

BOWLING TIPS

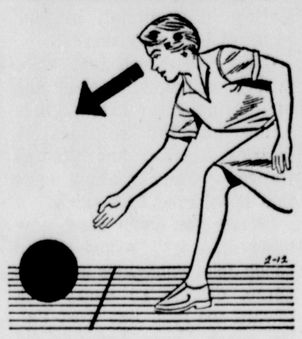
By MARION LADEWIG



Keeping your eyes on the ball is important in golf. Bowling is similar in that you should keep your eyes on the spot over which you plan to roll the ball for some time after the release. That helps you to stay down. If you look away from the spot and toward the pins too soon, you will probably have lifted your body and broken your control.

Seattle Faces Santa Clara Test

By U.P.INTERNATIONAL

Santa Clara (8-1) calls on Seattle (7-3) in a key West Coast Athletic Conference basketball test tonight.

University of San Francisco (8-1) will call on the Chiefs Saturday night so the schedule is not playing any favorites.

Latest WCAC statistics show Seattle leading the League in offense with a wild 97 points per conference game and also hitting 52.1 per cent from the floor.

In the Pacific Eight, it's pretty much all the University of California of Los Angeles. The Bruins are leading in rebounds, field goal percentage (.516), offense (92.8) and defense (64.9) with only Oregon State breaking the Bruin stranglehold by hitting .762 from the free throw line.

Bill Walton of UCLA is tops in scoring (23.6), field goal percentage (.636), and rebounds (17 per game). He's getting a /ood battle in the scoring department from Claude Terry of Stanford (22.9) and Ansley Truitt of California (20.8).

In coast action Wednesday, Toy Rolph hit 24 points as UC Irvine took Stanislaus State 89-85. Occidental beat La Verne 93-65 with Doug McAdam hooping 20 to run the winners' record to 8-3 in the Southern California Intercollegiate Athletic Conference.

It was Pomona 54, Claremont 51 and Whittier over Redlands in a comeback 72-70 win in more SCIAC action.

Sonoma Cossack '5' In Final Two Games

The end to a long and arduous road will be forthcoming tonight and tomorrow night for Sonoma State College, as the Cossacks play their final two basketball games of the 1971-1972 season against Far Western Conference visitors University of California at Davis and Chico State College. Both games will start at 8 p.m.

The Cossacks are currently in last place in the FWC, and have yet to win a league game. Overall for the year, Sonoma State has a record of 3-21 which seems poor, but was actually quite an improvement over last year's squad which went 0-26.

Forward Henry Crawford is expected to play for the Cossacks tonight after sitting out two games with a bad leg. Crawford's rebounding will be sorely needed after the sudden departure from the team of leading scorer and rebounder Larry Austin. Cossack guards DeLaughter, who was named FWC backcourt man of the week two weeks ago, and Paul Holmes will try to control the ball and slow down the tempo of the game to counteract Davis' running game.

New England End Dryer Seeks Money, Second Swap

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

SAN DIEGO — Fred Dryer was traded to the New England Patriots but says, "the only way I'd go to Boston is if they gave me a bean soup franchise or if Upton Bell came out here and told me, 'here take all the money you want.'"

Dryer may not be serious all the time but when it comes to football he can be intense. "The good times are over," Dryer declared flatly, "I had three years of living in New York. Now it is time to get on to the Super Bowl."

Dryer wants to be on a team with Super Bowl prospect and does not feel the Patriots are that team. "New York is eight years away," Dryer said.

If Dryer cannot reach agreement with the Patriots, he would like to be traded to a West Coast team. "I wouldn't mind Los Angeles."

Bell is expected to disclose how many beans are in the pot tomorrow in a meeting in the Beverly Hills office of Dryer's attorney John Thomas.

Drake J.V. Cagers Play A Fast Game

When the Drake High School junior varsity basketball team takes the court, rival coaches quickly consult their schedules. Before the game, they think they've been matched against a fifth-grade team. Afterwards, they think they've been in a track meet.

With only one regular over six feet tall, the Drake J.V.s have employed a run-run-run strategy to achieve a 23-4 record, 18 straight victories, and the unofficial Marin County Athletic League title with a 13-0 record.

"They're the neatest bunch of kids I've ever coached," said Pete Hayward, who has been coaching 11 years, seven at Drake. "They work really hard and have a fine attitude. They believe in each other."

If the Pirates have a star, it is Dan Howard, a 5-foot-8 guard "who is our playmaker and leader of the fast break," according to Hayward. The top scorer is forward Don Asay, but his average is under 10 points a game, indicating Drake's balance.

At 6-0, Bruce Katuna has been "our strongest rebounder. He can handle the 6-5 guys around the league," Hayward says.

The Pirates have eight players whom Hayward considers front-liners. They include John Schmitz, who is co-captain with Howard; guard Jeff Guidi; and forward Rod Oates, "who has kept on playing hard" despite losing his starting job to Katuna.

"Then you have Phil Wilkinson, who comes off the bench to do a Havlicek thing for us, and his brother Joe, who does the same thing," said Hayward.

"We rely on screening, position and scrapping to compensate for lack of height," Hayward said. "We've outrebounded our apponents for the year, and we've only committed half as many fouls as they have."

"Conditioning is also a major factor. We keep hammering at people and wear them down." Against Redwood last week, Drake trailed in the third quarter, 31-28, but won going away, 65-44.

"They're a bunch of aggressive kids who really want to play basketball," said Hayward.

Tam's Will Garner In Line For Prep Scoring Crown

The question is' will Will Garner garner the scoring championship?

The answer is: Will Garner will garner the scoring championship, unless Hoza Wright scores 54 points tomorrow night.

Marin County Athletic League statistics through Tuesday reveal that Garner, star forward from champion Tamalpais High School, built up suh an overwhleming lead in scoring that he could afford to sit out the final two games.

That is fortunate for him, because he may have to. A pulled abdominal muscle sustained in last Friday's game with San Marin forced him out of Tuesday's Novato game and may cause him to miss tomorrow night's finale against San Rafael.

Through 12 games, Garner scored 281 points for a 23.4 average, pouring in 27, 28 and 34 in his last three outings. Through 13 games, Wright has 228 points for a 17.5 average. A 54-point outburst would give Hoza a one-point edge. (It would also break the MCAL single-game record by 11.)

Even so, Garner would be well ahead in pre-game average. To top 23.4 over 14 games, Wright would need 328 points, or a nice, round 100 tomorrow night.

Instead of looking up toward Garner, Wright should look down over his shoulder at the No. 3 and No. 4 scorers, who threaten his No. 2 position.

Tim Hennessy of Redwood is third with 220 points for a 17.0 average, and trails Wright by just eight. He was even with Hoza in the middle of last week, but the San Marin star pulled ahead.

Marty Moroski of Novato is fourth with 217 points and a 16.7 average. He lost one point on Hennessy and nine on Wright last week.

In individual scoring, all eight MCAL teams are represented among the top nine scorers. Of the 12 players in double figures, two each belong to Tam, Redwood, San Rafael and Marin Catholic and one each to the other schools.

Redwood continues to dominate team statistics, ranking first in offense, second in defense, and first in average point spread by a wide margin. This is a recording. The Giants are scoring 67.0 a game, a full eight points ahead of Marin Catholic, and outscoring their foes by 14.7 a game, six better than Tam.

Marin Catholic scored 150 points in two games to catapult from fifth to second in team scoring.

Although Tam's league-leading defense slipped last week, the champions should rack up an impressive statistic tomorrow. If they hold San Rafael to 70 or less, they will finish the year with a defensive average under 50.0.

On the other hand, if San Marin yields 53 or more to Marin Catholic, it will suffer the ignominy of surrendering 1,000 points in a season.

Beat The Crowd At Squaw Valley

By CHARLIE COANE

This has been a particularly good season from a financial standpoint for the ski resorts in Northern California. No one is complaining about crowds from a resort owner's point of view. The snow and weather have been relatively good and the cars and bodies have been flowing in.

Several areas have had record days. Alpine Meadows even tries to limit the numbers of skiers by not packing their parking lot like a sardine can.

Squaw Valley is far ahead of last year (which wasn't too hot for them because of a controversy over faulty lifts) and well above the year before that. A big day at that huge resort complex turns Squaw Valley into a small town.

"They estimate around 10,000 people may be here on a big day, judging from the number of cars," said Squaw's public relations chief, Hans Von Nolde. "It's hard to tell exactly how many because of the number of season pass holders (2500), two-day ticket buyers and non-skiers. But a few days after Christmas, on Jan. 29, and Lincoln's birthday, we were pushing 10,000 people."

How can anyone ski with 10,000 people? Well, it's not easy, especially if you don't know where you're going or are not familiar with Squaw Valley. On a crowded day a first-timer could get completely hung up in a sea of people, cars and lifts if he's in the wrong place at the wrong time. On the other hand, with 26 lifts in full swing, the crowds can be somewhat avoided with a little knowhow.

I'll give you a few of my ideas. I'll have to assume a few things: 1) that you're willing to get up and to the area fairly early and 2) you can ski on most lifts.

First, if you roll into the parking lot around 10 a.m. or 10:30 a.m., you've made your first mistake. You'll end up hiking too far to the slopes. Try arriving and parking around 8:15 a.m. in back of the ice arena. That will come in handy at the end of the day. Squaw has a 140-passenger cable car and a four passenger gondola system. I avoid them both most of the time. By all means grab a map of the place if you don't know where you're going. The most crowded part of Squaw is the Gold Coast area and lifts near there, except for the very beginner chairs such as Links, Belmont, etc.

If you want to ski off of Gold Coast, Shirley Lake, Siberia, Emigrant, Broadway and Riviera, there are other ways to go up the mountain where those runs are besides the gondola or cable car which will be jammed on a crowded day far before 9 a.m. Squaw Peak from the bottom leads to Riviera or Siberia which can land you at the Gold Coast restaurant area. The two Cornice lifts will do the same thing. But make sure the upper Cornice is running or the lower Cornice will force you to ski to the bottom and start all over. KT-22 saddle run leads to upper Cornice and away you go agin.

If you're able to hit the lifts early, you can get in several runs before the crowds set in. Try stopping for lunch at 11:30 a.m. or so. Gold Coast restaurant can become very crowded during noontime. The bottom restaurants are less crowded. Advanced lifts least used are Red Dog and Exhibition — most of the time. If you want to avoid the day's end rush hour, ski straight to your car and be on your way. You can do this if you park behind the ice arena. Leaving between 4 - 6 p.m. is asking to get caught in a traffic jam.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Share Appreciation Seems Speculative

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I hold shares of Viking on the National Stock Exchange. What are the prospects for appreciation in the next year or so? — A.S.

A. The announcement, early in February, that Viking General had applied for ASE listing generated a strong upside impetus for the shares. Sales and earnings have demonstrated good growth in recent years, with fiscal 1971 setting a record. Sales moved up 62 per cent year-to-year to $8.7 million, while earnings were $1.85 a share, up from $1.35 in fiscal 1970.

First 1972 quarter through November sales more than doubled with net not far behind. At the start of the current fiscal year, Viking adopted a different accounting policy which reduced earnings 4 cents a share in the first quarter.

Company's principal business is sale of unimproved real estate in Florida. Lithography and picture frame operations account for less than 10 per cent of net and about one-third of volume. Three acquisitions for cash and stock have been announced since mid-December.

With these acquisitions, Viking has broadened and strengthened operations to include community development. Real estate inventory as of mid-1971 consisted of 52,452 acres, with less than 5,000 acres registered as improved. Shares, at only 10x 1971 earnings, appear to have speculative appreciation potential.

Q. I put $5,000 initially in IDS Progressive fund in a 20-year $100 monthly plan. In 20 years, I hope to withdraw $750 monthly without touching principal. Is this a sound plan? — T. D.

A. Your invested capital, approximately $30,000, would have to reach $130,000 in order to return (at 7 per cent) $750 monthly. Because the full amount won't be invested during the entire 20 years, I would say your expectations are exaggerated.

IDS Progressive did very well in 1971, up 47 per cent including all distributions, but in 1970, its first year in operation, net asset value dropped 21 per cent. Holdings are primarily speculative, with retailers, restaurants, textiles and airlines comprising almost half their portfolio.

Why not spread your risk by investing in a more conservative no-load fund from here on out?

Computer Break Slows Market

NEW YORK (UPI)—A computer breakdown temporarily disrupted an already sluggish stock market today. Trading was fairly active.

The Big Board's computer went awry at 11:01 a.m. and returned to normal operation about 11:25 a.m. Trading was halted on the floor during the period. appeared

The list appeared to be marking time, according to some movements, but some profit taking, a but some profit taking, a factor in recent sessions.

Shortly before noon, the Dow Jones industrial average, down at the outset, rose 1.50 to 913.38. Standard & Poor's 500 stock index gained 0.17 to 105.55.

Advancing issues held a 657 to 494 lead over declines among the 1,546 issues crossing the tape. The two-hour volume amounted to more than 5,300,000 shares.

Prices were mixed in fairly active trading on the American Stock Exchange. Condec was the most active issue, up 1-2 at 13 7-8 on 43,600 shares.

On the Big Board, Seaboard Coast Lines Industries (exdividend) was the most active issue, down 2 3-8 at 60. Matsushita Electrical Industrial was second, up mixed, 3-8 at 22 3-4.

News In Detroit Now Good

By S.M. MARSHALL
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

Good news for investors in automobile stocks has been flowing out of Detroit lately and the trend is widely expected to continue for the rest of 1972.

General Motors, Ford, and Chrysler reported sharply higher profits for last year. Even American Motors, which has trouble competing with the Big Three, showed an earnings gain for the December quarter.

GM's 1971 earnings shot up to $1.94 billion, or $6.72 a share, on record sales of $28.3 billion. A 67-day strike in 1970 held earnings for that year to $609 million, or $2.09 a share.

Chrysler had an equally strong turnaround. It's 1971 profit totaled $83.7 million, or $1.67 a share compared with a year-earlier deficit of $7.6 million.

Ford posted a 27.3 per cent profit gain for the year, netticg $656.7 million, or $6.18 a share, on sales of $16.4 billion. Ford's profit would have been higher but for a strike against the British production arm.

Most significant for all three firms was their strong fourth quarter performance.

During the year's final three months, the auto companies no doubt would have performed even better, had it not been for the price freeze related to the President's new economic program. Despite the freeze, however, they posted dramatic gains.

All of the automobile companies are expected to benefit from three principal factors this year: Rising consumer confidence, devaluation of the dollar, and repeal of the 7 per cent excise tax.

According to prevalent forecasts in Detroit and in Wall Street, total new car sales in this country in 1972 should reach 10.8 million or more, up from 10.2 million last year. Significantly, imported models probably will account for a smaller share.

This means the percentage gains for the domestic carmakers would be somewhat greater than the overall jump from 10.2 million to 10.8 million units would indicate. Because of leverage, earnings progress for the Big Three could be even better.

Economists say increased consumer confidence should benefit the auto companies in two ways: First, because people who postponed their purchases during the recession should reenter the market and, second, because business recoveries usually cause car buyers to "trade up," or buy more costly models.

The devaluation of the dollar has already had a major impact on imported car sales. Price increases on these autos have averaged more than 12 per cent so far, reflecting the diminished value of the dollar relative to the currencies of exporting countries.

So the imports no longer have the big price advantage of yesteryear; the subcompact and compact models produced by American manufacturers are much more competitive.

Most economists seem to feel that American car buyers prefer to buy American products. Their purchases of imported nameplates thus occurred mostly because of the pricing situation. Dollar devaluation has eliminated that.

Repeal of the 7 per cent excise tax automatically created a stimulus in the auto market, because it meant cost reductions averaging $200 a car. This was largely offset by the price increases permitted under Phase 2, but nevertheless must be considered a stimulative factor.

The biggest turnaround situation in the industry is Chrysler, and its price-earnings ratio is the highest as a result. Current Wall Street estimates place 1972 earnings in the area of $3 to $4 a share, way above 1971's $1.67.

"During the recession of late 1969 and throughout 1970," said Henry E. Riehl of Dean Witter & Co., "Chrysler's product mix deteriorated more than that of any major manufacturer. The long-awaited improvement in product mix appears to be emerging."

He notes that Chrysler's overseas operations earned a profit last year, compared with a loss in 1970. He pegs overseas earnings this year at about $19 million, up from $5 million last year.

On the negative side, he notes that Chrysler is highly leveraged, has a low profit margin and high break-even point and must compete with powerful General Motors, whose resurgence in last year's final quarter increased its share of the uto market.

GM's market penetration was up around 55 per cent in the quarter for two reasons: First, it introduced its new models weeks ahead of everybody else and, second, the buyers who stayed out of the market because of the strike in 1970 remained loyal to GM and returned en masse for the 1972 models.

GM's big fourth quarter gains, therefore, could be considered temporary. But even if the company returns to its normal 52 per cent of the market, it still is expected to benefit from rising consumer spending in a bigger car market.

Current Wall Street estimates put GM's 1972 earnings in the area of $7.50 a share, up from $6.72. On the negative side is the possibility that its earnings might hit a cyclical peak this year, causing a downward revision in its price-earnings ratio.

Moreover, GM is one of those companies that traditionally have paid substantially increased dividends when higher earnings are recorded. This would not be possible under phase two. Still, the stock now already yields more than 4 per cent, highest of the autos.

Ford recently was selling near the high end of its traditional price-earnings range for recent years, or at about 12 times earnings. This would be natural in a recovery period.

Plans For Nicasio Lake Wins First Place Award

Plans to beautify Nicasio Lake have won a first-place award, a plaque, for "Achievement in Ecology" for the Marin County Board of Realtors.

The award was made in connection with the "Make America Better" program sponsored by the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

Robert Roumiguiere, past president of the local association accepted the award recently in Las Vegas, Nev. With him were Donald Beacock, president and Daniel Deedy, manager.

The Marin County board won first place for a master plan to beautify an 800 acre park at the lake for the Boy Scouts and others. Roumiguiere said that the association paid landscape architect William Kapranos $650 for the plan, which just covered staff time with Kapranos donating his ideas and skills.

The association has given $2,000 to the Boy Scout Council to start the project. Initial phase will probably be in planting native shrubs and trees, he said.

The association hopes to interest other groups than the Boy Scouts in working on the park. He envisions it as a project that will take five to 10 years to complete.

In the national contest, second place went to Salina, Kans.; third to Rochester, N. Y. and fourth to Cottage Grove, Ore. boards.

NORTH BAY DINING AND WINING

Here Is A Guide Worth Saving

By HARRY CRAFT

The average year-to-year net increase in dining houses in the North Bay is about 6 per cent, although it may appear to be much more than that to anyone who has been long absent from the area.

The tally of listings and cross listings in this year's Dining and Wining Guide is 197. Last year it was 185. It does not include fast-service establishments, coffee shops, short order shops and pizza parlors which are not intended to be within the scope of this guide, though many are fine establishments and well patronized.

Yet, for the person who delights in tracking down a new eating place, there are several opportunities for more ports of call. In San Rafael, for instance, there are fou: The Brat Haus (or Brat Hause, according to the owner's latest spelling), Celia's No. 5, the Fujiyama Restaurant and Little Joe's. The Brat Hause and Little Joe's are downtown restaurants, frequented mostly by business people during the day and early evening. Celia's is a comparatively new Mexican restaurant in East San Rafael. And the Fujiyama, opened this month on the Miracle Mile, will interest those who have long decried the absence of Japanese food service in Marin.

Among other new San Rafael names is the Medallion, once the West End Villa. And we are pleased to include this year Zanze's which is moving into the dinner trade.

In Southern Marin, a worthy addition is Le Camembert on Shoreline Highway, Mill Valley, opened last summer, certain to appeal to devotees of fine French food. In Tiburon, very tiny but doing well and likely to increase in stature is the Butler's Pantry.

From Corte Madera through Fairfax, the dining picture is not greatly changed from last year. But next month look for a new opportunity at the Lark Creek Inn opening at Larkspur. In West Marin there is only one major change — a new name and ownership for the Silver Dollar Inn at Point Reyes Station to the II Ball Inn, offering a more extended program. And sometime in the spring look for the opening of the Valley Inn at San Geronimo.

In North Marin, new is Little Bavaria at Ignacio with German and American food. And in Novato we are pleased to include now the Octopus, which has grown into a popular seafood restaurant in the five years since its opening as a small fish market; also Sambo's, first of this chain in Marin, and the Two Flags Pub, where Gary's used to be.

In Sonoma County, an interesting addition is the Hideaway in Petaluma. In the City of Sonoma, the Franciscan listed last year as closed, is open under new ownership. Farther west in Sebastopol we are including Le Pommier and at Jenner the River's End Resort.

These are major additions. They do not reflect all the changes which have occurred in the past year — new menus, price changes, different hours and schedules — and regretably, some closings.

All this, plus the fact that there was an unprecedented call for last February's guide, has made this updated edition necessary. We actually ran short of copies of the 1971 edition. So, too, did the Marin County Chamber of Commerce and Visitors Bureau, which finally had to resort to handing out guides two and three years old.

Don't discard this year's edition. If you don't need it, pass it on to a friend — perhaps to one who is not a Marin resident. We are printing a larger supply this time, but even that may be overdrawn.

WINE RACKS, WINE CASKS and other appointments give the dining room of Le Tonneau at Corte Madera an old world atmosphere. The restaurant, located in the Paradise Shopping Center and once known as Gregory's, now specializes in French and other European food.

Wine Is Made Once A Year

Wine, the beverage of moderation, has been used since before Biblical times as a pleasant and natural accompaniment to meals. During the fall vintage time, one is especially aware of wine's uniqueness.

Among the aspects of wine that distinguishes it from other alcoholic beverages is that most wine makers are oriented to agriculture. This is because wine is made only once a year, when grapes are ripe and ready for picking and crushing.

Actually, grapes can themselves make wine. This occurs naturally when the juice of the grape comes in contact with the yeast on the skin of the grape.

Given a little warmth and time, the sugars in the grape juice then ferment producing alcohol and carbon dioxide.

The wine maker merely assists nature by producing a better, purer, cleaner, more palatable product than would be produced in the wild.

If You Like Your Meal Just Say So

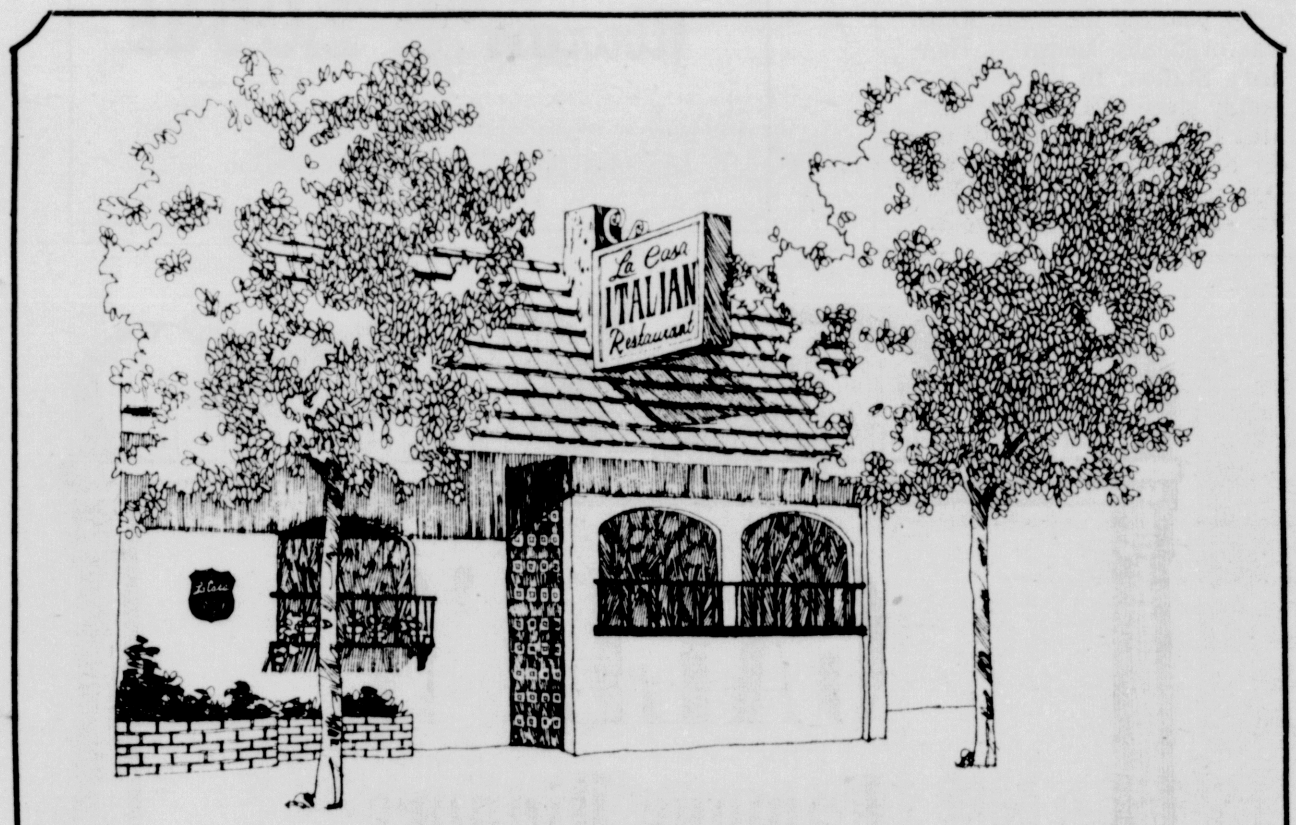
If you are particularly pleased with a dining-out experience, remember to tell the waiter, the maitre d' or the owner — or write it on your business card and have it passed along to the chef.

When something goes wrong, this supervisor of the kitchen is sure to hear about it. Less often does he hear an expression of approval from the customers — and almost never a tip.

A good chef is an artist in his profession. His media is made up of recipes, sauces, soups, combinations, balanced portions, meat, fish and other viands. His tools are pots and pans, broiler and gas range. Out of all these he is expected to frame a masterpiece.

If he does, see that he does. You are sure to make a friend.



Here in Marin County restaurants come in all shapes and sizes, from the ornate restaurants with glittering chandeliers and panoramic view down to the simple hamburger and pancake houses. Where are we on this scale? Somewhere a little above half way. We don't have the chandeliers or fantastic view, but we don't have those fantastic prices either; on the other hand we are not even close to being a hamburger or pancake house, those are for people who are in a hurry. We prefer to serve the people who take the time to enjoy their food.

Let's put it this way, if you were taking friends out to dinner but wanted to keep the cost in sight, ours is the type of restaurant you would need. We have an extremely attractive dining room, truly excellent lunches and dinners, and a relatively good but inexpensive wine list (Almaden). Incidentally, we also serve excellent pizza, after all, we are an Italian restaurant.

We hope you will visit us soon, we will be very surprised if you are disappointed.

P.S. On weeknights we can seat you almost immediately, however on weekends there may be a short wait for a table.

ONE OF THREE famous Occidental restaurants is the old Union Hotel, which was first opened in 1876. Together with Fiori's and Negri's, located nearby, the three dining houses account for record visitors to the little Sonoma County town. Peak days for visitors are on Easter and on Mother's Day when as many as 10,000 dinners are served.

When Dining Out Order Wine First

Here's a tip on ordering wines from Leon D. Adams, author and lecturer on wines and good living for 30 years.

When you reach your table, ask immediately for the wine list.

Insist that the wine be brought immediately. If necessary, decline to order until the wine arrives.

Ignore all snooty stares — it's the seasoned patron who demands the best bargain.

If by chance you get a good wine, well served, at a fair price, thank everybody in sight.

And here's one from another wine expert who travels often and so has foreign money in her purse. She prides herself on the ultimate last word for waiters who say they have only French, or Italian or German wines.

Word Punch Dates To 17th Century In India

The word "punch" originated in India.

The word means "five," from the Hindustani "panchi." That was the number of ingredients when it was first made in the 17th Century. Chroniclers say the original five items were sugar, lime juice, spice, water and arak (a kind of rum made variously of palmtree juice, molasses and rice — or all three).

All kinds of combinations have been put together since those days and accepted as punch. To be historically correct, put in five items.

Here's one recipe: Combine one quart of apple juice or cider with two tablespoons of lemon juice, two sprigs of fresh mint (bruised) and one-third of a cup of sugar. Keep the mixture in the refrigerator in a covered bottle.

Wine For Curry

Order a white dinner wine with a curry dish — preferably something spicy — such as a Gewurtz Traminer. Or a full-bodied sauterne. The very delicate whites don't belong in the same ring with a curry. In a pinch you can get by with a rose.

Where Irish Coffee First Introduced

Credited with introducing Irish coffee to Americans is Joe Sheridan, who was chef at Shannon Airport in the days of the flying boats.

The passengers came by launch to Shannon, shivering with cold. Said Joe: "What is more warming than Irish Whiskey smooth as a maiden's kiss? To take the chill off their poor shaking hands we will fill the whiskey glass with coffee black as Cromwell's heart. And top it up with an inch of floating cream."

How To Begin Wine Cellar

With a wide selection of excellent California wines becoming increasingly available throughout the country, creation of one's own wine cellar is becoming a more popular pastime than ever before — a "luxury" that anyone can afford.

One easy way to have "an instant wine cellar" is simply to sue an ordinary corrugated wine case as a "convenience cellar." It is designed to hold a dozen wine bottles securely, with some protective insulation from the box and its dividers. The flaps can be cut from the top for easy access and the box placed on its side.

Another easy method is to purchase a wine rack. Commerical wine racks are widely available. Any of them — wooden, ratton, wire, styrofoam-fold-ups, stack-ups, compact or elongated — will safely hold your bottles of wine. Mailing tubes, large juice or fruit cans and agricultural tiles also can be used to make attractive wine bins.

Your wine cellar need not be a cave carved out of limestone nor a stone cellar curtained with cobwebs. It can be a broom closet, a bureau or kitchen drawer, a corner of your den or a section of your garage or basement.

Three things should be remembered in determining your wine cellar area: Select a darkened place — "light is the enemy of wine"; Store your wines in a room with a constant temperature — between 50 and 70 degrees — too much temperature fluctuation will adversely affect your wines; Keep storage area free of vibrations — the juggling of a washing machine, for instance, tends to adversely affect wine.

Along with these general considerations, there is the matter of closures. Corked bottles need to be stored on their sides so that the corks remain moist. Cork shrinks when it dries, allowing air to get at the wine.

Many persons, discovering the pleasure of wines for the first time, are at a loss over which wines to stock. The easiest approach would be to buy a few bottles of California dinner wines for meals, hospitality wines for pre-dinner and after-dinner serving; and sparkling wines for all occasions from breakfast through lunch and for special events in one's life — weddings, christenings, birthdays, parties, and home wine-tasting parties.

Why Wine Glasses Have Special Shape

What glassware to use with wines?

The best champagne glasses are tulip-shaped. The bowl has a point at its base near the stem from whence the bubbles arise. Shallow coupes disperse both bouquet and bubbles too swiftly.

According to legend, saucer-shaped coupes were sculpted after a model of Helen's breast, made by Dionysius at a revelry. Marie Antoinette, who was aware of the story, had a set of four done in Sevres porcelain.

Stemmed glassware aesthetically surpasses on ordinary kitchen tumbler. Even so, wine is wine, whatever the glass.

The all-purpose glass is very suitable for whatever is served. It is clear crystal, stemmed, and without color or ornamentation to distract from the beauty of the wine.

The stem serves as a handle. The heat of the hand will not unduly warm the wine.

Host's Glass

The first ounce or two of a dinner wine should be poured into the host's glass. This enables the host to taste the wine first and also to inspect for possible cork debris.

The guests' glasses should be poured counter-clockwise around the table, to the right of the host who is served last.

Fill the dinner wine glass about two-thirds full. This reduces chances of spillage and allows the aroma or bouquet to be better appreciated.

In pouring Sherry or Port, the glass should be filled to within one-half inch of the top.

When finished pouring into a glass, twist the bottle slightly before raising its mouth from the pouring position — this catches the last few drops on the lip of the bottle — preventing dripping.

How To Open Bottle Of Wine

Drawing the cork is easy if a good corkscrew is used.

To open a bottle of wine:

Cut the foil or cellulose band with a sharp knife about ¼ of an inch beneath the lip of the bottle. The foil or cellulose band should not be torn or ripped off. A neat cut makes it easier to pour the wine. In the case of a metal band, it eliminates the possibility of a metallic taste.

The mouth of the bottle should be wiped clean with a napkin before inserting the corkscrew.

Give an extra part turn. Then pull firmly and slowly so that the cork is removed whole.

Time For Sherry? Almost Always

When is the proper time to drink sherry?

It all depends on the type of wine. Dry - before dinner or with shellfish. Medium - with soup or "nipping." Golden or sweet (cream) - at the bottom of the meal. That's one of the rules.

If that doesn't satisfy you, the Spaniards have one that probably will. There is an old saying in Jerez - the district in Spain known for its famous sherries: "Drink it only on two occasions - first, when eating dried codfish; second, when not eating dried codfish."

Former Marinites In New Ventures

Honorable mention must go to three former Marin County restaurateurs who are still in business but whose establishments are not located in areas covered by this guide.

First of the three to open in a new restaurant was Roy Franchini, a long-time San Anselmo resident and many years ago a member of the Franchini team at Home Market.

He later broke away from the store to open at West End Villa in San Rafael and later, with his son Niki, opened Franchini's Chateau on the 101 Highway near Lucas Valley Road — which is still operated by the younger Franchini.

Roy and his wife, Bess, who had helped him at the Chateau, moved from Marin County in 1969 and settled in Lake County. There they took over the restaurant adjacent to the Buckingham Golf and Country Club, renamed it Franchini's Tee House and had their official opening on Feb. 1, 1970.

Franchini's Tee House is located near Mount Konocti, about midway between Lakeport and Lower Lake.

Gregory Seubert and his wife, Mary Alyce, of Corte Madera had already set their sights on a restaurant location in Mendocino County, when the Franchini's were scouting possible sites near Clear Lake, but for many months they commuted between Albion, where they had built a house on the Mendocino Coast, and Paradise Drive in Corte Madera, where they operated Gregory's Restaurant.

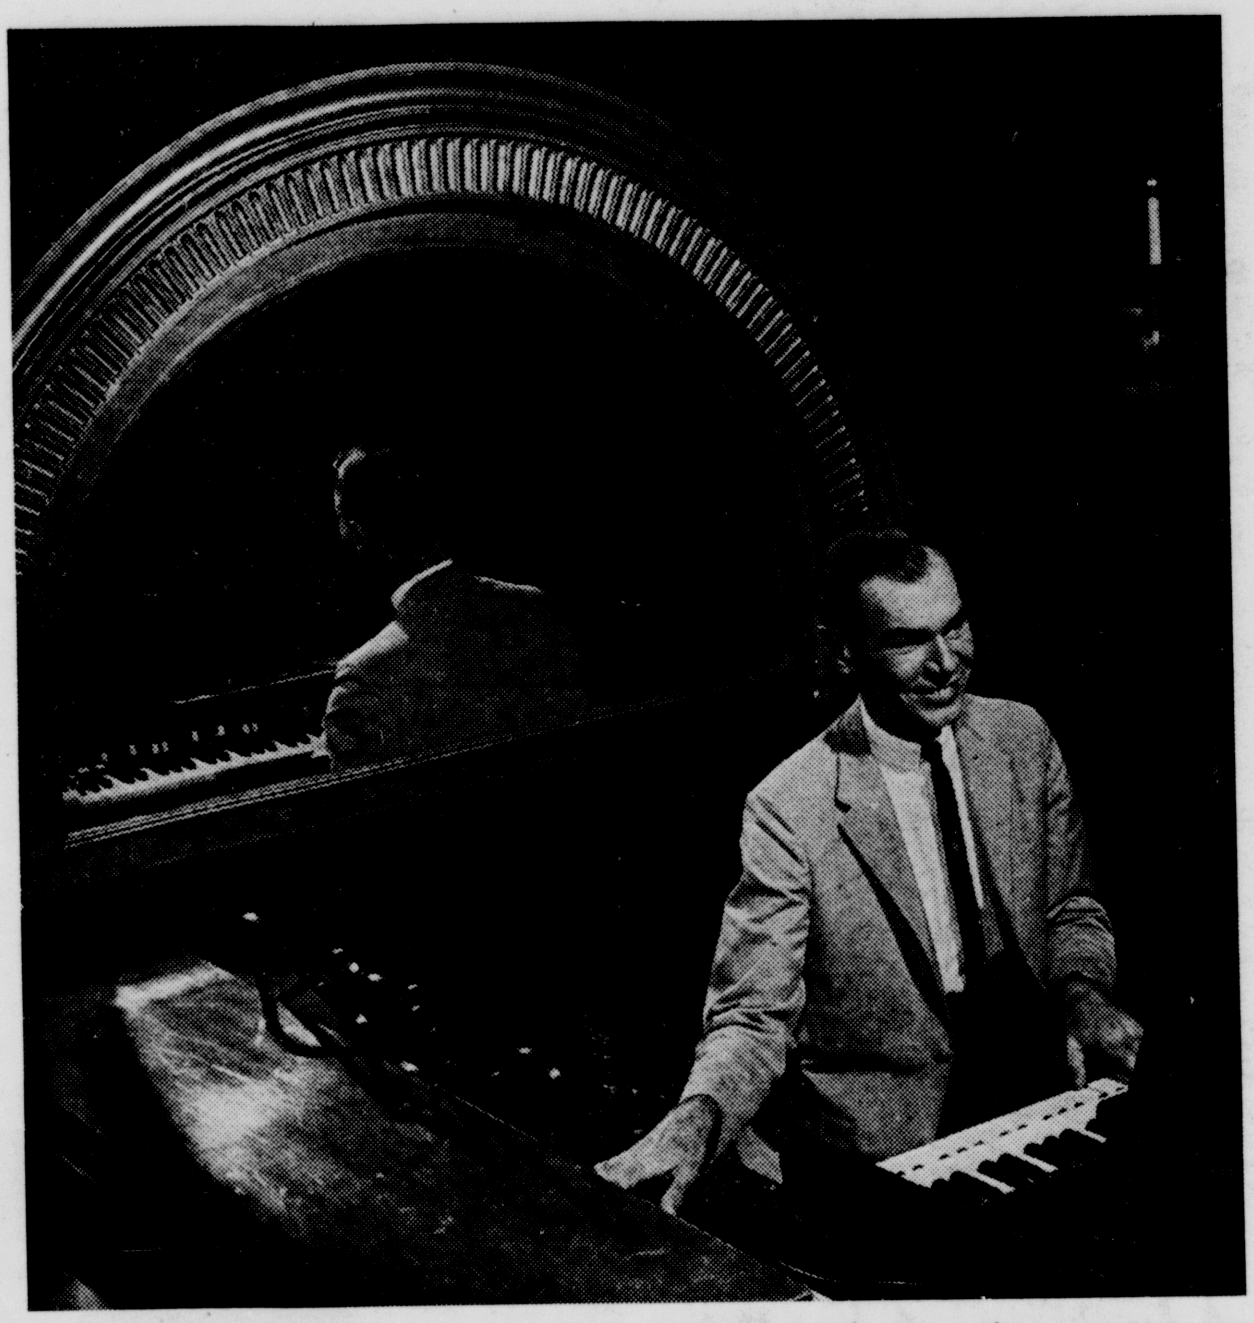
Their first inclination was to build a restaurant on their coast property, but were later drawn into a venture which called for a large dining house, to be called Noyo River Inn, near Fort Bragg.

The Seuberts sold Gregory's in 1969 and moved to Albion. The Noyo River Inn was opened the following April. Located on South Harbor Drive, off Highway 20, about one-quarter mile from Highway 1, it overlooks the Noyo Mooring Basin and will seat over 200 persons.

At last report, it had an encouraging start for the 1972 season and was expecting to have a full and active year.

A more recent department from Marin restaurant circles was that of Andre Marquer, former partner in the Normandie on the San Rafael Miracle Mile, who sold his interest here last year and moved with his wife Diane to St. Helena.

In November they opened a French restaurant called A la Toque, and from all accounts it is going well. It is located at 537-B on Highway 29, next to the Tripoli Market.



PROFICIENT AT BOTH piano and organ, Bob Stewart, Sabella's cocktail lounge entertainer, often plays both instruments at the same time. He frequently has the opportunity to accompany many talented singers who visit the lounge.

Vodka Controlled By Government

In Russia, the government makes the vodka. It has been a state monopoly since 1895 when the Czar was at the helm.

Rectified grain spirit is cut with distilled water and filtered through activated birch charcoal and quartz sand. The result is a colorless liquid which, after three years of aging, is claimed by the Russians to be much more subtle than the like product distilled by the capitalists.

But the Soviets are trying to turn off the domestic vodka spigot these days in the interest of sobriety. Wine and champagne are favored as temperate beverages. But the government runs the wine business, too.

A Flaming Dessert

Many a restauranteur has kept his cash register hot by dazzling the clientele with flaming dishes — such as cherries jubilee.

You can do the same thing at home. For a traditional recipe, you need one No. 303 can of pitted black cherries, one tablespoon of sugar, one tablespoon of cornstarch and one-quarter cup of warmed brandy.

Drain the cherries and save the juice. Mix the sugar and cornstarch and add one cup of the juice, a little at a time.

Cook a few minutes, stirring until it thickens and clears. Add the cherries and take it to the table. Pour over the warmed brandy, light it and ladle the sauce over the cherries. Serve over vanilla ice cream.

Flavor Of Wine In Cooking

Professional chefs in the best restaurants use wine everyday in their cooking to present the food in the best possible way.

Flavoring your food at home with wine is easy. Favorite standard recipes can quickly become wine flavored specialties by substituting wine for part of the liquid called for in the recipe. A dash of sherry in a basic wine sauce does wonders for creamed seafood or vegetables. A basting sauce made of white dinner wine and an equal amount of melted butter seasons chicken deliciously as it bakes or broils.

If you are a teetotaler, don't worry about the alcohol in the wine. It evaporates with the heat. But the flavor remains

Anywhere Is Rule On Wines

When you are in a restaurant and the wine waiter approaches, does he look like Vincent Price and sound like the whole Berlitz School of Languages?

Is he dressed like a medieval torturer and does he give you a wine list written in Sanskrit?

No, he isn't and he doesn't. It's your imagination. He looks, dresses and acts that way because people expect it, and because it helps him to make a living.

True, he may try to sell you the most expensive bottle of foreign wine in the house if he thinks he can get away with it. Don't let him. He'll like you better if you don't. He probably will make a suggestion on a suitable wine with whatever you are having for dinner. If he knows more than you, pay attention, but don't be bullied.

There is one cardinal rule in wine drinking: Anywhere. Drink what you like. Chances are that you will agree with the traditional combinations of wine and food but you needn't be bound by them.

Most people go along with the idea of red wine with red meat, white wine with fish, chicken and white meats. They find it best to drink drier wines first, then sweet wines. They avoid wine with some salads, saying wine and oil don't mix. Often for luncheon and with pink meats, they choose a Rose. Champagne is good, they say, before, during and after any meal, at any time of the day from breakfast to a late supper.

If you're a beginner, stick with the traditional combinations until you really know what you like.

Chef's Big Hat: Badge Of Office

In the Middle Ages, it was a matter of the most renowned chef having the biggest headpiece.

It all started during the seventh century in Greece which had an influx of philosophers, artists and free thinkers fleeing from persecution in the Byzantine Empire. Many fled to Greek monasteries for refuge.

Most of these men were also excellent cooks, and the monks who were lovers of good food put them to work, giving them white caps as a badge of office. Eventually the crowns of the caps increased in height according to the proficiency of the wearer. Naturally the master chef demanded the highest cap of all.

Some white "stovepipe" hats still remain in use today, though the tendency now is to wear something that doesn't get knocked off the head by a high jutting warming oven or shelf.

And in the present day custom of men in everyday life, some don't wear a chef's hat at all.

Tip Given In Chinese Cooking

One of the secrets of Chinese chefs is the use of dried tangerine peel wIth poultry, fish, game and in soups.

Try it with other foods, too. The peel adds exotic flavor to vegetables such as peas, green beans and spinach. It helps eliminate an undesirable fishy taste from steamed fish, and adds distinction to mildly seasoned pork and veal dishes.

If you buy your peel from a Chinese market it has been carefully fried and aged for as long as 10 years. No tangerine taste is discernible, but it imparts a sweet, slightly tart, aromatic flavor.

Sabella's OF MARIN

The story of the Sabella's actually begins in the 19th century when the family lived in a small Sicilian village and fished in the turquoise waters off Tunisia. In 1887 Luciano Sabella, at the age of fifteen, set sail for America and made the long trek across country to San Francisco, where he settled around the lower slopes of Telegraph Hill. Some years later, Luciano married Angela Scafani whose family had arrived from the same small village.

Angelo Sabella was born in 1904, the fourth of a family of thirteen. One of the first things he remembered was a walk he took with his grandmother in 1906 shortly after the earthquake on Columbus and Taylor Streets. A huge crack opened in the street before them. The earthquake was the occasion of Angelo's first trip to Marin. His father loaded his entire family and all their belongings aboard his fishing boat, and took them to a tent camp in Tiburon. After the great fire was controlled the Sabella's moved back to Stockton and Francisco Streets.

As a young lad, Angelo delivered the Italian language newspaper, Il Vocce del Popolo, on the cobblestoned streets of Telegraph Hill. Later he hawked crabs through the Barbary Coast for ten cents each and fifteen cents for two after school. In 1915, Angelo was at the prow of his father's fishing boat, The Marconi, when they won the gold cup at the Panama International Exposition Fisherman's Boat Race around Alcatraz Island. As Angelo grew up he worked with his father at their Crab Stand No. 3 Fisherman's Wharf, where two younger brothers and a nephew still carry on the family tradition.

In 1928, Angelo married Vita Ra, and in 1932 the young Sabella's opened the family's first seafood restaurant at the end of the Wharf in Santa Barbara. Arthur Brisbane, renowned Hearst Columnist, devoted an entire column to the young Sabella's acclaiming their fine food and warm hospitality. Many people still come to the Marin restaurant remembering the Sabella's from their seven years in Southern California. In 1940, Angelo returned to Fisherman's Wharf and was associated with his brother, Antone Sabella.

In 1951, Angelo moved to Marin and established a restaurant just north of the Richardson Bay Bridge on the Redwood Highway. His aim was to establish a family restaurant which would not depend on transient trade but one that would appeal continually to Bay Area residents.

Angelo, himself, would venture off into the early morning seas aboard his boat the Mark Angelo, and bring in catches of salmon fresh from the sea.

The Sabella family's love of the sea is always with them and reflected in the fine family recipes that please even the most discerning of the gourmets.
